United Press International

Fireworks claimed at least four lives and injured nearly 200 persons during Fourth of July celebrations, the National Fire Protection Association said Friday.

One youth was killed and a companion injured when a homemade pipe bomb exploded prematurely as they prepared to detonate it in a field near Arlington Heights, Ill., a Chicago suburb.

A 4-month-old child died in a house fire in Anaheim after fireworks were shoved through a mail slot; an M80 weapon killed a 34-year-old man at Fackler, Ala., and a 16-year-old boy was killed in a mishap in Stark County, Ohio.

Injuries ranged from loss of sight to loss of limbs, the association said. It made no attempt to estimate total property damage, but said that in the Los Angeles area alone, fireworks triggered 48 fires which caused damage estimated at more than $76,000.

The fire protection group criticized the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission for lifting its national ban on sale of firecrackers.

The commission first imposed the ban, effective June 17, but postponed it because of the association.

The traffic toll on the nation's highways mounted steadily Friday in the second day of the Fourth of July holiday weekend after a life-saving slow start on the holiday itself. The tally at midnight showed 255 persons had been killed in auto accidents since 6 p.m. Wednesday. California reported the highest toll with 23.

Vincent Ortiz, 16, was killed and 16-year-old Tim Coppler was seriously injured at Arlington Heights. Coppler underwent surgery Friday for a severed left hand.

Police said Ortiz carried the 8-inch-long explosive in his pocket at a community fireworks show, then told two girlfriends he had "a bigger firecracker than anybody else." The girls, standing about 40 feet away, escaped injury from the blast.

A few miles away, at Rolling Meadows, Ill., high winds carried the residue of an aerial fireworks display over a crowd of about 3,500 persons, and 12 persons suffered minor eye burns.

Eleven persons suffered minor injuries at Concord, N.H., when a four-inch rocket landed in a crowd at a fireworks display. The 11 were taken to a hospital for first aid treatment.

A 17-year-old Brooklyn, Ohio, boy underwent surgery on one hand after a large firecracker blew up before he could release it. At least three other children in the Cleveland, Ohio, area suffered fireworks injuries.

Theft of guns from armory baffles police

By CHARLES HINCH
Staff Writer

There was considerable speculation and even a touch of controversy among investigators—but no new leads—Friday in the theft of an arsenal of weapons from the National Guard Armory in Compton.

Ninety-six M16 rifles were taken, an official list showed, seven M60 machine guns, eight M79 grenade launchers, 3,360 rounds of 5.56mm M16 bullets, 1,000 rounds of 7.62mm machine gun bullets, 45 rounds of .45-caliber bullets, 40 grenades, 16 smoke grenades, 100 riot grenades, 75 gas masks, a .45-caliber pistol and 15 bayonets.

The speculation centered on whether the burglary was carried out by a terrorist organization or professional criminals. Late in the day, the conversation of police indicated they were leaning to the latter.

"I was a detective in burglary for three years," said Sgt. Clifford Smith, now the night watch commander for Compton police, "and this was the most professional job I've ever seen. There's never been one better. They're not pros. They're super pros."

THE BURGLARS saved off a chain lock on a Cyclone fence at the rear of the barn-like armory—which sits across from Compton's City Hall; cut through a metal-covered outside door, broke through two doors inside, then used a pneumatic drill to cut into the vault in which the weapons were stored.

Sgt. Smith said the burglary occurred sometime between 4 p.m. Thursday, when a guard unit participating in a Fourth of July parade took some motor units from the armory, and 9 p.m. when a guard officer entered and found a 16-inch-by-two-foot hole in the steel plated door of the supply room which houses the walk-in vault.

Different opinions were expressed over whether the burglars could make the weapons operable.

THE FIRING pins and bolt assemblies of all but 20 of the rifles and the other guns had been removed before they were placed in the vault.

FHA loan rate raised to 9%

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government announced Friday it is increasing to 9 per cent the allowable interest rate on federally insured home mortgages.

Officials said the increase to a record level from a previous rate of 8.75 per cent was prompted by the continuing rise in market interest rates for home loans.

"This continuing rise in the cost of money forces us to increase the maximum rate FHA (Federal Housing Administration) will insure so that prospective home buyers will continue to have access to FHA-insured mortgages," said James T. Lynn, secretary of housing and urban development.

Under the old interest rate of 8.75 per cent, the monthly payment on a $30,000 loan financed over 30 years was $236.10. At the new interest rate, the same mortgage will require monthly payments of $241.50.

THE GOVERNMENT action came at the same time that HUD announced that the effective interest rates for loans guaranteed by the FHA and the Veterans Administration hit a record level in June.

The figures showed that the effective average interest rate for new home-loan commitments by lenders reached 9.29 per cent. This surpassed the record of 9.18 set last October.

Since the rate was above the 8.75 maximum allowable interest rate, that meant either a buyer or seller had to pay "points," a surcharge levied by the lender to make up any difference between the government-insured rate and market interest rates.

On a $30,000 mortgage, the difference between the maximum allowable rate and the average effective rate would have meant a lump-sum payment of more than $5,000.

In announcing the increase in the allowable interest rate, Lynn said that the points system is in effect prepaying interest.

Lynn said the new rate ceiling will be effective Monday. The Veterans Administration simultaneously announced the same new rate for the loans it insures.

THE LAST previous increase in the interest rates was on May 13, when President Nixon announced a three-pronged program to make home buying easier.

The program included what are in effect subsidies for home loans. Lynn said enough financing for 100,000 units is still available under the program which provides home buyers with loans at a 7.75 interest rate.

U.S. ready to help Italy in money crisis, Kissinger says

By BARRY SCHWEID

ROME (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger gave assurances on Friday that the United States was prepared to assist Italy should its economic situation worsen.

"We are following Italian events with sympathy and affection," he said at a luncheon with President Giovanni Leone. "You can count on the fact that in whatever moment Italy should find itself in difficulty, we will do everything possible to assure its stability and progress."

Kissinger then met with Foreign Minister Aldo Moro. An Italian spokesman said that he held a "general discussion" of the country's economic problems but not about a U.S. loan specifically.

There have been persistent reports that Italy was seeking a large foreign loan to help it out of its worst crisis since World War II. La Stampa of Turin, a leading newspaper, reported that discussion of a U.S. loan was the principal item on the agenda for Kissinger's talks here.

Inflation in Italy is running at 20 per cent a year, and the foreign trade deficit, mainly due to imports of oil and meat and other food products, stands at $1 billion a month.

Kissinger was in Rome to continue his briefing of European leaders on President Nixon's talks in Moscow. He is telling them that the U.S. made no commitment to a 35-nation summit meeting sought by the Soviet Union to wind up the European security conference. Russia has been in favor of such a summit.

Kissinger is calling for an end to the "theological debate" that has stalemated conference negotiations in Geneva. There is no way to move ahead with 25 papers on various contested points "kicking around," the senior U.S. official said.

The Soviets have been promoting the summit as a highly public way of legitimizing their control over Eastern Europe and the post-World War II borders. The West Germans and other Europeans have been reluctant to commit themselves.

Also, the Western nations want freer access to the East with books, journalists, scholars and ideas generally.

The senior official told newsmen aboard Kissinger's flight here from Paris that "we are not pushing for a summit, but we are also not opposed." He said the results of the Geneva negotiations would have to warrant holding one.

A joint communique issued at the conclusion of the Moscow talks between Nixon and Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev said the final stage should take place "at an early date." It added that "both sides also proceeded from the assumption that the results of the negotiations will permit the conference to be concluded at the highest level."

Kissinger discussed the security conference in Paris over breakfast with French President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing. They also talked about Europe's energy problems, the Middle East and transatlantic relations.

"I think the French are trying to get back on an even keel in their relations with us, and we're prepared to do that," said the senior official.

Of all the allies, France has been the most critical of Nixon administration foreign policy, claiming especially that the Europeans are not sufficiently consulted.

The official, unidentified under the briefing rules, said Kissinger had "a positive talk" with the new French president.

Cal. employment at record high

Combined News Services

SACRAMENTO (AP) — More Californians were employed during June than ever before in state history, while the unemployment rate edged down from 7.6 per cent in May to 7.5 per cent in June, state officials said Friday.

Total employment in the Long Beach-Los Angeles area rose by 18,000 in June to 2.98 million, they said. The jobless rate in the area dropped from 7 per cent in May to 6.8 per cent in June.

The state employment total for June was 8.43 million, an increase of 83,- 800 over May's total, the state Employment Development Department said in a news release.

The increase in jobs between May and June was actually less than normal for that time of year, probably because of labor disputes in various areas of the state, the department said.

"In addition, employers in tourist-related industries were responding more cautiously to the vacation season than they

Case not 'clothesed'

L.A. Council backs off beach nudity ruling

Combined News Services

The Los Angeles City Council made a hasty retreat Friday from an ordinance forbidding nude bathing on Los Angeles beaches except for "clothing optional" areas.

Their 11-0 vote to delay passage came after Police Chief Edward Davis told them the "loophole" in the law had brought nudity rampant and an increase in lewd behavior arrests of 26 per cent on the Venice Beach strip.

The council gave tentative approval to the bill last week after a state Supreme Court ruling that nude bathing in itself was not illegal. In an attempt to avoid being overruled, the lawmakers said certain areas would be "clothing optional."

The result this holiday weekend had been a blossoming of nudity at Venice.

The council voted to put the entire matter over until Thursday when clearer heads may prevail.

The temperature will be 82 and the skies sunny in Long Beach today — in short, just another beautiful, balmy, ordinary day.

Friday's beaches were crowded, meantime, by people who made the Fourth a four-day holiday. Lifeguards said crowds peaked at 70,000, only 15,000 fewer than on a crowded, weekend day.

"Sunshine was hazy until about 11:30," said one lifeguard. "But then it cleared and we had a beautiful afternoon."

The National Weather Service said it will be the same today. But smog is expected to reach levels necessitating the issuance of health advisory warnings in eastern and northern sectors of the county, the Air Pollution Control District said.

The APCD said the readings — 20 parts per million of ozone — are expected in San Gabriel, Newhall and Saugus. It isn't as likely, the APCD said, but similar readings may be recorded in the San Fernando and Pomona-Walnut Valleys.

When health advisory warnings are issued, small children and persons with respiratory or cardiac problems are asked to curb activities.

45 hurt as two trains derail

MELVERN, Kan. — Thirteen cars of an Amtrak passenger train — the old "Super Chief" — jumped the track at 70 miles an hour Friday and four sleeper cars, a lounge car and a diner plunged down a 50-embankment. Forty-two persons were injured, some seriously. Two of the sleeper cars turned on their sides as they went down the embankment and stopped. But the other two sleepers slid a quarter of a mile on their sides and skidded across a country road before stopping. The train was bound from Los Angeles to Chicago. A spokesman for Santa Fe Railroad, which operated the train, blamed the wreck on a broken section of track.

In another less serious Amtrak mishap Friday, three Amtrak employees were injured when all eight cars of a passenger train en route from St. Louis to New York derailed near New Florence in southwestern Pennsylvania.

Bangkok street war subsides

BANGKOK, Thailand — A street war in Bangkok's Chinatown subsided early today after reinforced police units in battle gear chased young gunmen through the streets and made dozens of arrests. The official death toll in three nights of violence reached 24 and 135 persons were reported wounded. More than 100 persons were arrested. Premier Sanya Thammasak, who blamed the spasm of rioting on Chinese motorcycle gangs, earlier took a get tough stance unprecedented in his nine-month-old administration and ordered all Thailand's military forces to be ready to intervene if necessary. The battleground was a Chinese neighborhood of comparatively wealthy businessmen and storekeepers where a violent subculture of motorcycle gangs has grown up that frequently erupts in gang fights. What caused the latest, deadly violence was unclear. There has been resentment of the police among many young people since police tried to quell a student rebellion last October that toppled Thailand's military government and brought Sanya to power, but the powerful student movement seemed not to be involved in the latest disorders.

New Ethiopia arrests

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia — Ethiopia's military reformers announced Friday night the arrest of six more top officials considered corrupt and reactionary, including the commander of the 2nd Army Division and the administrator of the Ethiopian Orthodox Church. The official Ethiopian News Agency said the six gave themselves up peacefully. That brought to 18 the number confirmed as arrested, including some of Emperor Haile Selassie's closest aides, since soldiers moved into Addis Ababa last Friday and put the city under curfew. The detainees were accused of backroom attempts to perpetuate Ethiopia's feudal system.

Cypress, Greece rift

NICOSIA — President Archbishop Makarios Friday accused Greece's military regime masterminding attempts by Greek Cypriots to assassinate him and of trying to introduce dictatorship in Cyprus, and he said he will take over control of the Cypriot national guard from its Greek officers. Makarios said the guard command was disregarding cabinet decisions and added that in his view was an undesirable introduction of dictatorship into Cyprus and an attempt to turn the national guard from an organ of the state into any army of internal occupation. The national guard is a 10,000-man force of Cypriot conscripts, but commanded by about 650 officers from the Greek mainland. Meantime, Greece's foreign minister and two high-ranking diplomats have resigned in the wake of the country's deteriorating relations with the Turkish and Cyprus governments.

Mrs. King plot denied

WASHINGTON — The Justice Department said Friday its investigation had concluded that no conspiracy was involved in the fatal shooting of Mrs. Martin Luther King Sr. Deputy Assistant Atty. Gen. K. William O'Connor said he ordered the FBI to investigate as soon as he heard of the shooting, in which Mrs. King, 69, the mother of the slain civil rights Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., was murdered by a black man during Sunday services in Ebenezer Baptist Church in Atlanta.

Coffee price scheme

PARIS — Cafe Mondial Ltd., an organization representing countries that produce 85 per cent of the world's coffee, announced after a meeting here Friday that it plans to intervene in coffee markets in New York and London to attempt to halt the fall in prices of that commodity. Representing Brazil, Colombia, the Ivory Coast and Angola, Cafe Mondial Ltd. will try to do for the coffee market what the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries has done for oil producers. Cafe Mondial also announced its intention of strengthening its system of withholding coffee from world markets. Several Central American producers have already suspended shipments until prices move higher.

Vatican, Poland link

VATICAN CITY — The Vatican announced Friday night that it is establishing "permanent working contacts" with Poland as a step toward normal relations with the most Catholic of all Communist countries in Europe. The Vatican statement did not say what form the contacts would take, but sources said they believed they would be similar to semi-official links the papal state established with Yugoslavia in 1966 and which led four years later to full diplomatic relations.

Czech gold agreement

PRAGUE — The U.S. agreed Friday to return 18.5 tons of gold to Czechoslovakia as part of an expropriation agreement between the two countries, a Czechoslovak government spokesman said. The U.S. kept 26.5 of the 45 tons of Czech gold confiscated by Nazi Germany in 1939 and later brought to the U.S.

Panama Canal in red

PANAMA CITY — The U.S. government Panama Canal Company closed its books for fiscal 1974 on June 30 with a record deficit estimated at $12 million, a canal spokesman said Friday. The spokesman said in Balboa Heights that the deficit occurred despite an $8 million increase in toll revenue, which was estimated at $121,384,000 for the year.

Gerald Ford best man as son marries

Combined News Services

Michael G. Ford, son of Vice President Gerald R. Ford, was married to the former Gayle Ann Brumbaugh in a traditional Protestant ceremony Friday in the Baltimore suburb of Catonsville, Md. Michael, 23, was wed to the 22-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Brumbaugh at the Chapel Hill United Presbyterian.

Vice President Ford served as his son's best man. His other two sons, John and Stephen, were ushers. Susan Ford, the groom's sister, was one of five bridesmaids.

Although President Nixon and his family were among the 250 invited guests, they did not attend the ceremonies.

The bride and groom met while students at Wake Forest College in Winston-Salem, N.C. Michael Ford is a theological student at Gordon-Conwell Theological Seminary in South Hamilton, Mass., and plans to return there for his second year of studies in the fall, the spokesman said.

Asked where the couple will honeymoon, a spokesman for Mrs. Ford replied, "Only God and the Secret Service know that."

Hometown

After more than a century, Martin Van Buren's hometown may finally recognize his presidency.

For 112 years, there has been nothing to honor Van Buren in Kinderhook, N.Y., except a marker at his home, a large house called Lindenwald, and a wreath at his grave. Now a federal agency is working on buying Van Buren's old estate as a prelude to converting it into a public monument. A bill pending in Congress would turn Van Buren's home into the same type of memorial as the Roosevelt estate located down the Hudson River in Hyde Park, N.Y.

Van Buren's birthplace — his parents' tavern — was torn down in the 1920s, reportedly because residents here considered it an eyesore. A collection of memorabilia, in the Columbia County Historical Society's House of History, has been relegated to the basement, next to the bathrooms.

Buried

Two young brothers who died in a hellish shipwreck in a shark-infested area of the Gulf of Mexico were buried Friday in Houston.

The family's pastor, Dr. Richard Clayborne, conducted the simple services for Edward M. "Tex" Horne Jr., 3, and Billy Horne, 10.

The two died Tuesday minutes after Coast Guard helicopters plucked them from the Gulf of Mexico near Florida. Five other members of their family survived the ordeal.

The Hornes were on a three-month cruise to Bermuda aboard their new yacht — the Princess Dianne — when it was ripped apart by a storm and sank. The family jumped into the churning waves and spent 13 hours clinging to a life ring before the rescue.

Billy died after his arm and leg were mangled by sharks that circled the family as rescuers approached. Edward died from shock and exposure.

Ailing

Chinese Premier Chou En-lai met with Sen. Henry M. Jackson in a Peking hospital Friday, the official Hsinhua news agency said. The report did not say if the 76-year-old premier was ill, but the site of the meeting indicated he was receiving medical treatment.

It was Chou's first reported meeting with a foreigner since he appeared with Malaysian Prime Minister Abdul Razak on May 31.

The Chinese-language broadcast gave few details of the Chou-Jackson meeting except that the premier asked the Washington Democrat to convey his best regards to President Nixon and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Ginzburg comeback a bit baroque

Publisher Ralph Ginzburg, who spent six months in jail on obscenity charges, sat in a bathtub full of champagne Friday and announced he was reviving one of the magazines that flopped while he was in prison.

Ginzburg, a man not given to understatement, predicted that the reappearance of the magazine Avant-Garde "will cause the greatest cultural cataclysm since the advent of the Beatles."

The short, baldish publisher managed to say this as he sat in the bathtub in his midtown New York offices while employees poured 92 bottles of California champagne on his head.

Wearing only his handle-bar mustache, a derby hat and horn-rimmed glasses, Ginzburg clutched a plastic duck and proclaimed that the new Avant-Garde would have a touch of "the bawdy high spirits of 'Eros.'"

That was that hard-cover magazine which

Lost hope

Barbara Mandel, who refused to move out of Maryland's governor's mansion for 5½ months last year in hopes of saving her marriage, filed for divorce Friday in Baltimore from Gov. Marvin Mandel.

Mrs. Mandel, acting through attorney Sidney Sachs of Chevy Chase, contended in her court papers that Mandel had abandoned her without just cause and there was no reasonable hope of a reconciliation.

Gov. Mandel announced last July we wanted a divorce because "I'm in love with another woman, Jeanne Dorsey, and I intend to marry her."

However, Mrs. Mandel refused at first to accept her husband's decision. She stayed in the 45-room governor's mansion with its staff of 18 while the governor took a $30-a-day hotel room.

Caged

Antiwar activist Phillip Berrigan was arrested Friday on the street outside the White House as he sat shackled in a simulated "tiger cage" prison cell.

The tiger cage, a 3x8x4-foot structure used in South Vietnam, was mounted on a flatbed truck and was on display outside the executive mansion.

Arrested with Berrigan were Hank Clement Skrypeck of Baltimore and William Michael Murphy of Washington. Skrypeck was in the cage with Berrigan, of Baltimore, and Murphy was driving the truck.

All three were charged with parading without a permit and were released on $750 bond each. Berrigan said later the arrest was probably illegal, but a spokesman for the U.S. Park Police said a permit for the display was required.

Novelist

Georgette Heyer, one of Britain's most popular historical novelists, died Friday in London. She was 71 and had been seriously ill for two months.

Miss Heyer's first novel, The Black Moth, was written when she was 17 and published in 1921. For the next 50 years she averaged a book a year, selling 100,000 copies in hardback in Britain alone and many more throughout the world.

Her most successful books centered on the Regency period of British history. They are dramatic stories of hatreds, elopements, duels, gambling debts and happy endings, but the romanticism was backed up by scholarship and expert knowledge.

brought the obscenity charges against him and led to the discontinuance of Avant-Garde. The old Avant-Garde was not an issue in that suit, but Ginzburg said it was "an indirect victim of the Ginzburg fought the case all the way to the Supreme Court, but still spent from February to October 1972 in the federal penitentiary at Allenwood, Pa.

Grace

Princess Grace of Monaco and her daughter Caroline ended a three-day private visit to Austria Friday which was highlighted by the opening of a rose show at the International Vienna Gardening Exhibition.

The princess was honorary guest of the exhibition Thursday in which a total of 100,000 roses were shown to flower and garden fans. A court spokesman described the visit as "strictly private."

Fireworks

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy flew to London Friday after concluding a brief vacation in the Irish village of Craughwell with a Fourth of July fireworks display laid on specially for his 12-year-old son, Teddy.

Irish Tourist Board officials arranged the 15-minute fireworks show Thursday night to mark Teddy's release earlier this week from a hospital where he had been treated for a reaction to an anticancer drug.

Skipper

David Bogan flexed his arm, took a firm grip and fired a world record 19-skip stone that plinked and pitty-patted its way to victory Friday in the annual Mackinac Island, Mich., stone skipping tournament.

Bogan, 21, was rewarded with 52 pounds of island-made fudge—a year's supply—and a 125-pound rock called the Little David Trophy, which, according to the rules, must be lugged away by the winner.

A resident of Chicago who summers on this island between Michigan's upper and lower peninsulas, Bogan beat out a field of hundreds of intent stone skippers.

The 19-skip stone was a record-breaker, shattering the world record set in 1932 by Cmdr. E. M. Tellefson whose 17-skip performance was entered in the Guinness Book of World Records.

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — After a day-long hearing before a Board of Officers Friday, Donald M. Boyd lost the first round of his fight to graduate from the U.S. Military Academy and be commissioned despite a secret marriage, his civilian lawyer said.

The board ruled late Friday night that Boyd had violated the academy's honor code in not identifying as his wife the woman he had named as his beneficiary on an insurance form, according to the lawyer, Steven Hyman.

Hyman said he and Boyd had unsuccessfully tried to base the case on their arguments against a West Point regulation which bars cadets from marrying. But the board ruled that the central issue was the alleged honor code violation, not the regulation, Hyman said.

Santa Monica man, 5 others missing at sea

SANTA MONICA (UPI) — The wife of a sea captain said Friday her husband and five other men have been missing off the Pacific coast of Central America since the middle of last month in a 70-foot motor yacht.

Geraldine Patrick said her husband, Capt. William H. Patrick, 53, Santa Monica, and the other men left Acapulco en route to Balboa, Panama, June 15, the day before Hurricane Dolores swept inland along the Mexican and Central American Coasts.

Also on board the S. S. Peregrine, a converted North Sea trawler, were Robert Healy, 43, Marina Del Rey; John Erck, 47, Malibu; Andy Pappas, 25, San Fernando Valley; another crew member whose first name was Richard, and a man named Hess, who boarded the ship in Acapulco, Mrs. Patrick said.

Mrs. Patrick said her husband left Marina Del Rey on May 30 on a non-stop voyage to Balboa, where he was to deliver the ship to a buyer.

She said he pulled into Acapulco to have the Peregrine's radio repaired and telephoned her from there the night of June 14, saying he was leaving for Balboa the following morning and would contact her by radio June 17.

No word from the vessel has been heard since it left Acapulco, she said.

Mrs. Patrick said the Mexican government had informed her that a search of the hurricane area was unsuccessful.

An Air Force spokesman in Los Angeles said search units at Albrook Air Force Base in the Panama Canal Zone had been put on alert.

$67 million gas rate boost OK'd

Associated Press

The state Public Utilities Commission approved a $67.7 million annual rate increase Friday for Southern California Gas Co.

As a result, beginning July 10, the average monthly residential gas bill will be about 83 cents higher, company officials said.

The company said the increase was needed because of higher prices charged for gas by its suppliers.

Airwest slowdown ruling

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Hughes Airwest obtained a temporary restraining order in federal court Friday aimed at preventing flight attendants from interfering with the airline's operation through any slowdown or other activity.

U.S. District Judge Samuel Conti signed the order and set July 12 for further hearing by Judge Robert Schnacke on the matter.

Conti's order read in part that the defendants are temporarily restrained from "Continuing with or engaging in any slowdown or refusal to perform work assigned to them by plaintiff in operation of its air transportation system whether by means of striking, partial striking, picketing, other than informational picketing or any operation or other concerted activity which impedes, interrupts or slows down plaintiff's operation."

The defendants in the complaint include the Air Line Flight Attendants Association and the Air Line Pilots Association which is the collective bargaining agent for the stewardesses.

The flight attendants' contract expired last year and the dispute has been in mediation under the National Mediation Board since May 22.

The suit said that mediation continued until June 28 and then recessed.

Beginning on July 3, alleges Hughes Airwest, the employee groups have "instructed employees covered by the agreement to engage in a slowdown and concerted effort to disrupt plaintiff's operation."

Support

When my marriage of 32 years was dissolved, I was to receive $170 a month in support and did until my former husband underwent back surgery and became 100 per cent disabled. He receives disability pay but says he doesn't have to make any more support payments. I have been told he still must pay me some support. Could ACTION LINE please tell me if I am entitled to it and, if so, what legal action I can take to get it? A.G., Long Beach.

Your former husband's obligation to pay you support still exists unless it has been modified or nullified by the court due to his disabled condition, according to a local attorney. The attorney said your former husband could be sent to jail for willful noncompliance with the court order to pay you support. You have two legal remedies to obtain your support payments. One is to file a contempt action in Superior Court. If your former husband is found guilty and doesn't pay you, he can be sent to jail for five days for each payment missed. The other legal recourse is to file for a writ of execution with the county clerk's office. If the writ is issued it will be levied on your former husband's non-exempt assets such as his bank account, stocks and bonds or real property. The county sheriff will garnish the assets and make payment to you.

Not record time

I am receiving bills from the International Preview Society of Great Neck, N.Y., for records which I have returned and despite the fact that I have written letters canceling my membership. My original membership card states that I do not have to take any minimum number of records so there is no reason for the company to ignore my wishes to stop the flow of records and billings. Can ACTION LINE straighten this out before my credit rating is affected. R.S., Long Beach.

ACTION LINE contacted the company and your membership has now been canceled. A spokesman for the firm said she didn't know why your account hadn't been cleared sooner.

Home work

I'd like to teach metaphysics and mysticism classes in my home to supplement my income. What type of a license would I need to do this? J.J.T., Hawaiian Gardens.

You legally cannot conduct a business in a residential zone in Hawaiian Gardens. If you live in a commercial zone, you can operate out of your home if you pay $25 a year for a business license, according to a city official. You can find out the zoning classification for your neighborhood by calling the Hawaiian Gardens City Hall at 860-2476. In Long Beach, home businesses are prohibited in residential zones except for instruction in music, drama, elocution, art and parliamentary procedure. Although they usually are illegal, many businesses operate unhindered in residential zones because city building departments usually don't investigate such matters unless a complaint is filed by a neighbor.

Mail order recorder

In March I ordered and paid for a blood pressure recorder from Nelkin Medical Products of Kansas City, Mo. When I received it, I found that it did not work. I returned it and asked for a different type of blood pressure instrument which I felt would be more satisfactory. I have never received the instrument and have not heard from the company despite two letters to them. Can ACTION LINE help me? L.S., Long Beach.

ACTION LINE contacted the company and your blood pressure recorder has been sent to you. The delay was due to a heavy backlog of orders, said a spokesman for Nelkin Medical Products.

HOW TO USE ACTION LINE

When calling or writing with a problem or question, give your name, address and telephone number — not for publication, as only readers' initials are used in the column — but to help ACTION LINE help you. Include pertinent information but please don't send original documents or pictures that you want returned.

The volume of mail makes it impossible to answer or acknowledge every question. Each question, however, is carefully read and considered. Because of the delay in transcribing telephone messages recorded on ACTION LINE's special number, 432-3451, mail requests often receive prompter attention than phone calls.

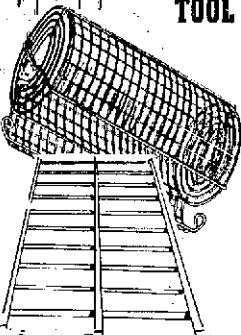

Persons seeking information contained in past ACTION LINE items may visit the newspapers' library, Room 208, The Independent, Press-Telegram Building, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. weekdays for help. Phone calls to ACTION LINE through the regular Independent, Press-Telegram switchboard will not be put through.

Nixon aides 'sought profile on Ellsberg'

By WESLEY G. PIPPERT

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The CIA's chief psychiatrist testified at John D. Ehrlichman's conspiracy trial Friday he was informed that Henry A. Kissinger and Ehrlichman had ordered a psychiatric profile of Pentagon Papers defendant Daniel Ellsberg.

Dr. Bernard Malloy said David R. Young Jr., then codirector of the White House "plumbers," informed him Aug. 12, 1971, that Kissinger and Ehrlichman, then President Nixon's top national security and domestic advisers respectively, had made the request.

The defense took over after the prosecution rested its case in the seven-day trial, and U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell ordered that Kissinger, now in Europe, "hold himself in readiness" for possible testimony as a defense witness.

Malloy said that despite the fact the CIA previously had never made a profile of an American citizen, except once when one was held by a foreign power, the agency proceeded to make a second profile.

ABOUT three weeks after that conversation, the plumbers entered the office of Ellsberg's psychiatrist in a fruitless search for his medical records.

Gesell rejected a second attempt by William S. Frates, Ehrlichman's chief lawyer, to send Nixon a list of written questions as part of his defense.

"... they must be directed only to essential issues in the case that cannot be established by any other available means," Gesell said. "If you cannot comply with the instructions I have given you, there will be no interrogatories."

Gesell, noting that interrogatories had been addressed to a president only two or three times in the nation's history, said the proposed questions asked if Nixon knew who Ehrlichman was, what his

White House duties were "and things wholly inappropriate to address to the President."

FRATES told reporters he would redraft the questions during the weekend. He said he had submitted about 20 initially. It was not known what Nixon's response to court-ordered interrogatories would be, although Frates said the White House staff was resisting.

Former Assistant Labor Secretary Arthur Fletcher, a black who knew Ehrlichman in Washington State, testified that his "truth and veracity" were good. Frates said he would call two more character witnesses Monday before placing Ehrlichman on the stand.

Frates told reporters he was not certain about calling Assistant Atty. Gen. Henry E. Petersen, head of the Justice Department's Criminal Division, after Gesell's implied criticism of the move.

In court, Frates said Petersen would testify that Nixon had instructed Ehrlichman that the work of the plumbers dealt with national security and no one was to answer questions about it.

"If those orders were given, those were illegal orders and I will instruct the jury," Gesell said, adding that Petersen's testimony could greatly lengthen the trial, which the judge has said would end next week.

FRATES contended, however, that Petersen's testimony would show that Ehrlichman had told other members of the plumbers not to answer questions about the Ellsberg break-in, not because of "consciousness of guilt," as the prosecution has claimed, but because of high orders.

Another CIA psychiatrist had previously submitted to the White House group a psychiatric profile of Ellsberg which was not considered adequate. Malloy referred to the development of such a profile as a "study."

"I was informed the President was aware of the study," Malloy testified. At this point Gesell interrupted the questioning and asked Malloy, "Who told you that?"

"Mr. Young," Malloy said.

Ehrlichman also is charged with four counts of lying to the FBI and a Watergate grand jury. Before the prosecution rested, it told the court that Ehrlichman first told the grand jury he did not know about a psychological profile of Ellsberg before the break-in, then voluntarily changed his testimony four months later.

Transcripts of his two grand jury appearances were read to the court on the seventh day of the trial. Ehrlichman told a grand jury May 14, 1973: "I learned after the break-in that they were looking for information for what they call a psychological profile."

BUT ON Sept. 13, 1973, Ehrlichman voluntarily told the grand jury that he had seen and initialed a discussion of the profile before the break-in.

Gesell refused to grant a White House motion to quash the subpoena for Kissinger to testify. Gesell ordered Kissinger, who is in Europe, "to hold himself in readiness, which is a polite way of saying he's under subpoena and we may need him."

However, Frates withdrew a subpoena for White House Chief of Staff Alexander M. Haig to testify.

Gesell denied all defendants' motions for directed judgments of acquittal. The judge expressed "serious reservations" about the constitutionality of the law under which Ehrlichman was accused of lying in an FBI agent's summary, and said, "I don't like to knock the count out for fear of what it might convey to the jury about the other counts."

THE FIRST two defense witnesses were Jana Hruska, Ehrlichman's executive secretary in the White House and daughter of Sen. Roman S. Hruska, R-Neb., and Todd Hullin, son of Ehrlichman's old law partner in Seattle and his executive assistant in the White House.

They testified that Ehrlichman worked 13 to 14-hour days, beginning shortly before 7 a.m., seven days a week, while in the White House. Both testified, however, they had no recollection of young bringing a box or case of files to Ehrlichman.

Young, who testified under immunity, said he took the files to Ehrlichman in March 1973, a month before Ehrlichman resigned, and when he got them back three crucial documents about the Ellsberg case were missing.

Doctor says he 'caught hell' Nixon put gag on ailment

By PHILIP SHABECOFF
New York Times Service

MIAMI — President Nixon ordered that the seriousness of his physical ailment be kept secret during his recent trip abroad because he feared public disclosure would interfere with his negotiations with foreign leaders, Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald Warren said Friday.

The President did not want his health problems discussed because he felt it would get in the way of the goals he hoped to achieve on what he considered to be two important trips, Warren said in reply to a reporter's question on why the gravity of Nixon's condition had been kept hidden from the American public.

The President's personal physician, Dr. Walter Tkach, had earlier disclosed that a blood clot in the President's leg could have killed Nixon during his recent trip to the Middle East. The clot, caused by an ailment called thrombo-phlebitis, could have broken off and traveled to Nixon's heart or lungs and possibly caused his death, Tkach said.

The doctor said that he had warned the President of the gravity of his condition but that the President had decided to go on with his trips anyway, thus taking what Tkach called a "calculated risk."

Tkach said that the danger had abated before the President left on his trip to the Soviet Union but indicated that complications still could arise. He also disclosed that the President had been taking medication throughout the first week of his journey.

The doctor also reported that by now the clot has become "fixed" to the vein in the President's leg and, while it always will be there, it no longer can break loose and threaten his life.

Ronald Ziegler, the White House press secretary, put out a notice Friday saying that the President "feels fine," adding that "the phlebitis has resolved itself and there is no danger."

A combination of physical exercise and rest for the President's left leg has been prescribed to deal with the ailment. Thursday, the White House referred to the President's condition as simply phlebitis rather than thrombophlebitis. The prefix "thrombo" indicates the complication of blood-clotting.

There are several possible reasons for the White House disclosure at this time of the seriousness of the President's physical condition during his foreign travels. One, of course, is that the trips are now over and whatever need for secrecy there

Colson will stay handy to probers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charles W. Colson is to surrender to federal authorities in Baltimore Monday to begin serving a one-to-three-year sentence for attempting to improperly influence the prosecution of Daniel Ellsberg.

The Justice Department announced Friday that the Bureau of Prisons and the U.S. marshal's service worked out the arrangement with Colson's attorney.

Colson, who had been scheduled to go to the federal prison camp in Allenwood, Pa., instead will be held for an indefinite period at a correctional facility in the Washington-Baltimore area.

The department said the decision to retain Colson in the Washington area "was made at the request of the House Judiciary Committee and the special prosecutor's office."

The committee and prosecutor Leon Jaworski are expected to question the former special counsel to President Nixon in their continuing investigation of Watergate crimes and impeachment.

may have been is now ended.

Also, Tkach said in an interview Thursday with the New York Daily News, that he has been catching "hell" with the medical community for allowing the President to travel abroad with such a dangerous ailment when he should have required him to stay home and rest his leg.

In the interview, Tkach said he had warned the President of the gravity of his condition, including the possibility of death, and urged unsuccessfully that the President cancel his trip. His disclosure of his warning may have reflected, at least in part, a wish to justify his handling of the case.

Finally, the disclosure that the President was willing to risk his life in pursuit of his foreign policy goals, may stimulate public sympathy for him. Public opinion polls indicate that popular support for the President is still low because of the Watergate scandal. And, of course, he still faces the possibility of impeachment.

Ziegler reported that the President had called Secretary of State Henry Kissinger in Rome Friday and that Kissinger had reported that he was receiving "a very good reaction" from European leaders to the recent summit meeting in the Soviet Union.

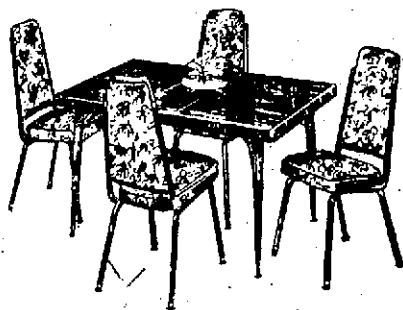

Kissinger is expected to return to the United States Tuesday and the President plans to hold a bipartisan meeting of congressional leaders to brief them on the results of his European trip, Ziegler reported.

The President also telephoned his daughter, Julie Eisenhower, to wish her a happy birthday. She was 26 years old Friday.

Connally lambasts character assassins

By JOHN LUMPKIN

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Asked if allegations in the milk fund case have ended his career as a national political figure, John Connally said, "Oh, well, let's just wait and see."

Gesell, noting that interrogatories had been addressed to a president only two or three times in the nation's history, said the proposed questions asked if Nixon knew who Ehrlichman was, what his ing the money from the co-op, Associated Milk Producers Inc.

Connally's 20-minute speech contained no specific references to Watergate-related scandals. But he did tell the lawyers' group:

"Character assassination has occurred as in the case of John F. Kennedy, with little regard for fact. Rumors have been published as gospel truth, and when proved untrue have simply been smothered by new rumors."

Juvenile Hall called worst place on earth

By NOEL SWANN
Our L.A. Bureau

A youngster sent for detention to the county's Central Juvenile Hall "can't go to any worse place on this earth," Burbank police officer Dick Smith charged at a public hearing in Los Angeles Friday.

Smith, president of the Burbank Police Officers' Association, was one of several speakers testifying at the third day of a probe into juvenile-justice problems being conducted by Supervisor James Hayes.

"It's brutalizing," Smith said of the hall. "If a youth goes to the Eastlake (Central Hall) facility I feel very sorry for him, no matter what he has done."

SMITH said he felt "a foster home, a psychiatric clinic or anything is better than the hall." He said he would rather see first offenders, especially, put into homes, adding that he personally has taken some very small children he has arrested into his own home rather than send them to Eastlake.

Smith, a recent law-school graduate, also was highly critical of operations at the Juvenile Court, located near Central Hall.

He said "victims of juvenile crime, such as witnesses, become victims of the system," often having to appear at the court four, five or six times because of cases being delayed.

"On each occasion, they (witnesses) have to sit all day on hard benches, constantly run out and feed parking meters or pay up to $3 for all-day parking, because the county provides no facilities for this."

FACED with these conditions, he said, witnesses often turn their trips to the Eastlake court into "total deceit."

Smith outlined one instance in which he had rallied several witnesses. He said the case was put off five separate times and that he was having difficulty persuading the witnesses to remain.

"On the fifth occasion, at about 4:30 p.m., the juvenile commissioner said he would not be hearing any more cases for the day," Smith said. Noting the case would have taken only about an hour, Smith said, one of his irate witnesses asked the commissioner why he could not proceed with the case, since they had all waited so long.

"The commissioner said he did not want to inconvenience his staff," Smith said.

"However, he said he would give us priority. And he did. We only had to return two more times."

SMITH said he would be "less than candid" if he did not admit that the delays in court often influenced police officers not to make arrests in minor cases.

Additionally, witnesses who have become victims of the court system often swear that in the future they will "not even report a crime."

The police officer said there also was a dire need for more deputy district attorneys at the juvenile court and noted that many of the deputies there consider "they have been sent to Siberia."

He said deputy district attorneys also would be "less than candid" if they did not admit that they "were usually sent to juvenile court because they could not handle a case downtown (in the criminal courts)."

"It should be the highest honor to handle juvenile cases, but the system is one of 'You blew a case — you're going to the hall,'" Smith said.

HE URGED that the court be kept open "late at night" if necessary to handle the heavy loads and suggested appointment of an ombudsman, whose job would be to thoroughly check the court calendar.

"With proper handling of the calendar, witnesses could be told in advance there would be no chance of a case being heard on a particular day, and this could save a lot of time and inconvenience," he said.

Referring to Juvenile Hall once more, he said many youths "look at the whole system as a joke, and the hall only makes them grow into hard-core offenders."

"A youth can bank on the fact that he is not going to get help in the hall, anyway, and that he will emerge a better crook, a homosexual or a fighter—or all three," Smith said.

HE ADDED that many juvenile commissioners know this too, and "don't want to send the youths into a failing system."

Longtime civic leader Sybil Brand told Hayes she thought the worst problem about Juvenile Hall was the mixture of first offenders, mentally deranged and hard-core delinquents.

"Separation of these three groups is our only hope," she said.

Mrs. Brand also pointed out that many of the youths in the hall are "dropouts, truants and runaways, who simply do not take to the academic learning thrust on them there."

She said it was essential to instead teach them vocational skills, such as plumbing and carpentry, but pointed out that these efforts have been stymied because the county superintendent of schools "insists that only credentialed teachers be used in the juvenile system."

The hearings continue at 9:30 a.m. today in Room 374 at the Hall of Administration.

Ex-agent held possible CIA-Watergate link

By MICHAEL J. SNIFFEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former employee of the Central Intelligence Agency made three trips to Cuba after becoming disenchanted with the CIA, which led the agency to rearrange some of its Western Hemisphere operations, an official source says.

The agent quit the CIA more than five years ago and apparently was not unhappy with the agency at the time of his departure, the source said.

But subsequently the CIA learned that he was "determined to do, say or write things to expose agency activities," the source said. After the former agent became disgruntled with the agency, he made three trips to Havana, the source said.

"The presumption is that he was very forthcoming in Havana, and that Havana was very forthcoming with Moscow," the source said.

The dates of the trips to Havana could not be determined, nor could it be learned whether the CIA had independently determined whether the ex-agent supplied Cuban officials with information about agency operations.

But the source said, "When the contact was discovered, those things that he knew about the agency were looked at very hard and defensive measures were taken."

In comments on a report issued by Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., earlier this week, the CIA indicated that it attempted "to terminate projects and move assets subject to compromise" as a result of the incident.

In CIA terminology, assets refer to people under cover, or firms or institutions which volunteer, contract or have been set up to help the agency around the world.

On Wednesday night, the same source had said that the disgruntled agent was believed to have given information to a Soviet intelligence agent two years ago. On Friday night, the source said that that was an error and that there had been no contact with a Soviet agent.

The source said the ex-agent is now living in Western Europe.

Baker, vice chairman of the Senate Watergate committee, reported Tuesday that the CIA's deputy director of plans had told the committee in closed session that the incident threatened to compromise Western Hemisphere operations.

Baker's report, devoted to possible CIA involvement in Watergate, said that the agency had described the Western Hemisphere affair for the committee but that description was deleted from his public report at agency request.

The incident came to Baker's attention through what he called a mysterious reference in a CIA memo to a "WH flap." The memo was written July 10, 1972, by a CIA case officer based on a meeting he had that day with Robert Bennett. Bennett was employed in the Washington office of Robert Mullen & Co., an international public relations firm then under contract to provide cover for CIA agents abroad.

Panel urges aid for alcoholics

Our L.A. Bureau

Alcohol has become "the number one drug of choice in the United States," and its abuse is becoming more noticed among teen-agers and women, a county grand jury committee said Friday.

In its end-of-term report, the jury's Committee on Narcotics and Drug Abuse urged supervisors to speed up acquisition of detoxification and rehabilitation after-care facilities.

The committee noted abuse of alcohol by young people has increased greatly because booze is "an accepted drug and is more readily available."

"It is advertised in magazines and newspapers and displayed in movies as a glamorous way of life. Most adults indulge in the use of alcohol and many parents would rather have their children drink than use other drugs," the report said.

The committee also noted that laws are not as severe on the teen-age drinker as they are on the teen-age drug user.

The committee noted that "women finally are coming forward and seeking help for their drinking problems." In the past, it has been difficult for women to do this because the public has "always viewed the female drunk with more distaste than her male counterpart. She has usually stayed close to home but by doing so only concealed the problem and did not help herself."

Giant solar storm disrupts air waves

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI)—A gigantic solar storm that covered an area on the sun as big as the planet Jupiter caused a virtual total short-wave radio communications blackout for 15 minutes Friday across the polar regions.

Scientists at the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's Space Environmental Laboratory said they had recorded three major flares since soon after noon Thursday.

On Friday, scientists observed the biggest solar flare of the recent storms, bringing to seven the number of major flares recorded in the past two days.

Carl Posey, information officer for the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration Space Environment Laboratory, said the flare nearly saturated the X-ray sensors aboard NASA's meteorological satellite launched last May.

Posey said the earth has been bombarded by an almost continuous shower of energetic atomic particles and greatly enhanced radiation from the sun.

The result of the bombardment has been to cause a deterioration of radio communications across the polar regions.

Posey said the storm was first detected June 28 when the affected area rotated into the earth's field of view. By Wednesday, the storm area covered 1,100 million square miles.

Posey said scientists believe the region of the sun where the storm has occurred still is capable of producing more major flares.

Tests begun on first Russ linkup

MOSCOW (UPI)—The two Soyuz 14 cosmonauts Friday began conducting experiments inside the orbiting 20-ton Salyut 3 space laboratory after completing the first successful Soviet linkup in space in more than three years.

The Tass news agency announced the docking about 32 hours after cosmonauts Col. Pavel Popovich and Lt. Col. Yuri Artyukhin, both 44, blasted off Wednesday to chase the Salyut station, launched June 25.

It was the first successful Soviet linkup since June, 1971, when three cosmonauts docked with Salyut 1 and remained aboard for 24 days, but died while returning to earth. Salyut 2 broke up in space on April, 1973, 11 days after launch.

THE SUCCESSFUL docking with Salyut 3, about one-quarter the size of the similar U.S. Skylab space station, gave a considerable boost to plans for linking up Soyuz and Apollo spacecrafts next July.

Soviet space failures over the past several years had caused concern among some U.S. space officials who questioned whether the Soviets would be ready for next year's joint flight.

There was still no indication how long the cosmonauts would remain aloft. A senior Soviet space official said Wednesday the flight would not be a prolonged one. The Skylab record is 84 days.

Popovich manually guided the Soyuz through the last 100 yards for the docking.

"It was a soft linkup," he said.

Artyukhin then entered the Salyut through a transfer hatch and switched on the lights.

"THE ATMOSPHERE here is fine," he said, calling in Popovich.

Pressure, temperature and humidity are the same as on earth, suggesting the men will work without full space suits. Tass called the space station a "roomy cosmic accommodation."

The cosmonauts immediately went to work preparing equipment to study the earth's surface and atmospheric conditions, do medical research and test the new systems aboard Salyut itself.

Four and a half hours after both were inside, Tass said the spacecraft "moved out of the radio visibility zone" and Popovich and Artyukhin went to sleep.

Flight director Alexei Yeliseyev praised their performance. "Both are working brilliantly and efficiently implementing the flight program," he said, "and the main thing is that they are doing it with ease, enthusiastically."

Russ bid to surpass U.S. told

By K.C. THALER

LONDON (UPI)—Western defense experts said Friday the Soviet Union wants to become—and remain—the biggest nuclear power and is now racing toward this goal.

This, they said, is probably the main reason for the failure of the recent Moscow summit to reach any major agreement on meaningful nuclear arms curbs.

The military strategists said in private conversation the Russians will settle "for nothing less than at least nuclear parity" with the United States over the whole range of nuclear weaponry.

They evidently are determined to close whatever gap still exists and catch up and eventually overtake the American lead, they said.

The Russians, they said, have always been worried about any advantage the U.S. showed — or which they suspected—in the nuclear arms field.

Some among the hard-line Moscow military complained that while the U.S. allowed Moscow more intercontinental ballistic missiles under the 1972 agreement, it more than equalized this concession by deploying multiple warheads (MIRV) on its own rockets.

That is why the Soviets have given top priority over the past year to the development of their MIRV (multiple independently targeted re-entry vehicles) and have made progress more quickly than expected by the West. They tested their MIRV earlier this year against American estimates that they would not perfect them before 1975.

Bill to curb atom fuel sale ready

WASHINGTON (UPI)—As two House subcommittees prepared for joint hearings on U.S. nuclear agreements in the Midwest, a Michigan congressman said Friday he would introduce legislation to deal with the sale of atomic fuels manufactured in America.

Calling for "immediate control measures," Rep. Robert Huber, R-Mich., cited "the imminent shortage of nuclear fuel to produce electricity and the danger that such fuel might wind up in the hands of terrorists who could turn it into atomic weapons."

U.S., Soviet team to study Aleutians

By BARBARA SLAVIN

NEW YORK (UPI)—A team of Soviet and American scientists, happily removed from the day-to-day fluctuations of political detente, left New York Friday for Alaska to study mutual ancestors—the ancient inhabitants of the Aleutian Islands.

The five Russian archaeologists and anthropologists plan to spend a month with their U.S. colleagues in joint research on Umnak Island, the site where thousands of years ago Siberian settlers first penetrated what is now the American continent.

Although scholarly collaboration between Soviets and Americans dates back through the years of the Cold War, the current project is believed to be the first time Soviets have ever been permitted to come to the United States for original research.

"WE KNOW where the migrants went to but not where they came from. They (the Russians) know where they came from but not where they went," said University of Connecticut Professor William Laughlin, who is directing the archaeological dig on Umnak Island.

Laughlin's words were echoed by Dr. Alexei P. Okladnikov, director of the Institute of History, Philosophy and Philology, located in Novosibirsk, Siberia, and leader of the Soviet scientific team.

"You know it from your side; we from ours—together we can accomplish something fantastic," Okladnikov said in an interview Friday a few hours before the Russians departed for Anchorage, Alaska.

The research project is sponsored jointly by the Soviet Academy of Sciences and the U.S. National Academy of Sciences and funded by the University of Connecticut, the National Science Foundation and the New York-based Wenner-Gren Foundation for Anthropological Research.

LAST MAY Laughlin, chairman of the University of Connecticut's Laboratory of Biological Anthropology, traveled to Siberia for a conference on the Bering land bridge that once connected Asia and North America.

"We've already located a village site on the island that dates back to between 8700 and 7800 B.C.," Laughlin said. He said this was about the same time the land bridge split apart.

"First we wish to know how the Aleuts came to what is now the New World," Okladnikov said. "Second, we wish to know how they managed to settle there—what kind of culture and what stage of development they reached."

"We are interested in all aspects—language, demography, everything," the Soviet professor added.

Asked if the archaeological project had significance for U.S.-Soviet cooperation in other fields, Okladnikov, a round-faced, middle-aged man with twinkling blue eyes, answered enthusiastically: "I believe it is a very big—a very effective—beginning for contact between our countries."

Kin wants ex-Yank back from Russia

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The mother of Dean C. Hoxsey, 48, a former U.S. Marine who was granted an exit visa from Russia after living there for 17 years, is trying to obtain permission for him to return to the United States.

"We certainly would welcome him back," Mrs. Leon Hugo told radio station KCBS Friday in a telephone interview from Gold Hill, Ore., where she was vacationing.

Mrs. Hugo, a resident of Napa, said she was working with the State Department and California's congressional delegation to get permission for his re-entry into the United States.

Hoxsey traveled to the Soviet Union as a Communist member of a youth delegation to the World Youth Conference in 1957.

Adm. Zumwalt's prediction

Woman could be chief of Navy

By STEVE GERSTEL

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Retired Adm. Elmo Zumwalt said Friday he sees no reason a woman some day might not become chief of naval operations, the Navy's highest post.

But Zumwalt, who retired this week as chief of naval operations, said the states would first have to ratify the equal rights amendment to the Constitution.

Without that amendment, which would strike down laws barring women from serving on combat ships, Zumwalt said women could not get the necessary experience to lead the Navy.

In an interview with Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., for broadcast by Illinois television stations, Zumwalt said the Navy must be ready for ratification of the amendment, which cannot come before next year.

PRESENTLY, women may serve only on troop transports and on hospital ships as medical personnel. But the Navy has assigned women to the hospital ship Sanctuary as part of the regular crew to determine if their presence poses any problems.

"We find that the problems are diminutive," Zumwalt said. "They are able to do the work in any rating and there is no question but that women will be able to serve on all ships effectively when the law in contradiction thereof is struck down."

"I see no limitations on the managerial or leadership capabilities of women and I see no reason, in principle, why some day a chief of naval operations should not be a woman who has had the opportunity to serve and command at sea and work up through the necessary experiences."

FAMOUS FOR SERVICE

Envoy to Turkey recalled

By BERNARD GWERTZMAN
New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — The State Department said Friday that the U.S. ambassador to Turkey had been called back for consultation on the strains in Turkish-American relations over the Turkish decision to resume the cultivation and sale of opium poppies, once the main source of illegal heroin in this country.

John F. King, a department spokesman, said ambassador William B. Macomber Jr. had been ordered back to Washington "to review the situation arising from the July 1 decision of the Turkish government."

MONDAY Turkey lifted its ban — imposed in 1971 as part of an agreement with the U.S. — on the cultivation of the opium poppy.

Under the 1971 accord, Turkey agreed to ban the cultivation of all opium poppy in return for an American pledge to give Turkey $35.7 million over a four-year period to recompense Turkey for the losses incurred.

Turkey, prior to 1971, had been one of the largest producers in the world of legal opium for the medical market.

But illegally grown poppy, processed into opium, and shipped clandestinely to France, became the largest single source of illegal heroin sold in the U.S.

IT WAS estimated that 80 per cent of all such illegal heroin came from Turkish opium.

King said Macomber had called on Turkish Premier Bulent Ecevit to tell him of the American disapproval of the unilateral rupture of the Turkish-American accord.

"This matter has been the subject of intense discussion between our two governments for some time, and we had made clear throughout our concern regarding such a decision to resume cultivation," he said.

TURKISH officials, in announcing the decision to allow the cultivation of opium poppy again, said that it would be strictly controlled to ensure that it was sold only on the international pharmaceutical market and did not end up in drug trafficking.

King said that "we are seeking additional details, both as to the scope and motive of the surveillance which is contemplated" over the crop.

The issue already has put strains in Turkish-American relations after Ecevit was named to head a left-of-center coalition in January and indicated he was contemplating resumption of opium growth because some 100,000 Turkish farmers reportedly were suffering economically after being forbidden to grow opium poppy.

The situation was aggravated by shortages in worldwide medicinal opium caused by the loss of Turkey's annual production of about 60,000 kilograms of opium gum from the world market.

UNDER THE 1971 agreement, the U.S. was to pay the Turkish government $15 million for the anticipated loss of foreign exchange earnings from the export of legal opium. Of the $15 million, $10 million already has been transferred to the Turks.

An additional sum of $20.7 million was to be used for development projects in former poppy-growing areas. Of that, $6 million has been disbursed.

The State Department said that because of Turkey's violation of the agreement, the nearly $20 million not yet disbursed would be blocked here in retaliation.

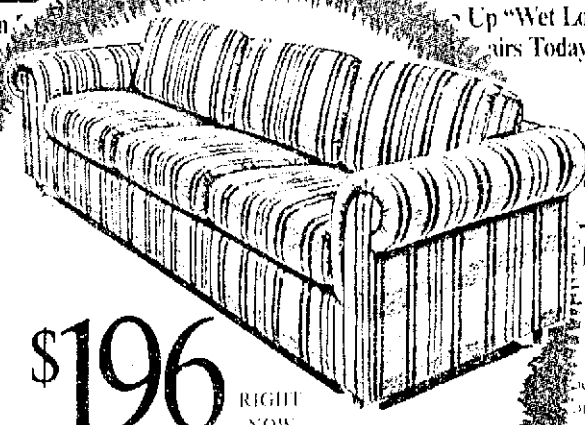

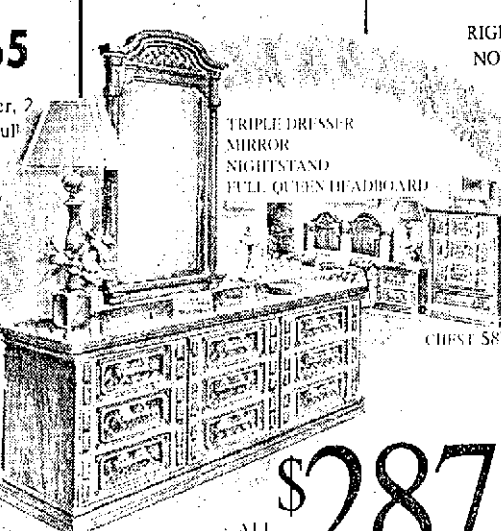

Over the years, dating to the original request by President Harry S. Truman in 1948 for aid to Greece and Turkey to block Communism, Turkey has received about $3 billion in military assistance and another $3 billion in economic aid from the U.S.

'Frightened, apprehensive' Kidnap family tells of ordeal

By EVANS WITT

OROVILLE (AP)—Alternating fear and relaxation were the moods of their five-day kidnap odyssey through three western states, a member of a Northern California farm family said Friday after returning to safety.

Mrs. Kay Skillin, 34, of Dayton, talked to reporters after John Wayne Card, a burly woodcutter, was booked for investigation of a ripe murder and for investigation of kidnapping Mrs. Skillin and her two children.

"Part of the time we were frightened and apprehensive, and relaxed part of the time," Mrs. Skillin said.

"His mood changed, depending on where we were," she said.

Wesley Skillin, 13, described the trip through California, Nevada and Utah more succinctly: He said he was scared.

Mrs. Skillin and her children, Wesley and 12-year-old Debbie, held a brief news conference at the Butte County sheriff's office. Only one reporter was allowed to ask questions, which had been censored beforehand by Butte County law enforcement officials. Reporters theorized that officials didn't want to jeopardize their case.

KAY SKILLIN, center, with daughter Debbie and son Wesley, tell newsmen in Oroville Saturday of their kidnap odyssey.

Mrs. Skillin looked tired after the ordeal that ended early Thursday when she and her children walked into a ranger station at Wilber Springs, about 50 miles southwest of their farm home. Authorities say the Skillins were abducted June 28.

They said they had been chained to a tree Wednesday night, but used a can opener to break the chains. The kidnapper left them with a three-day supply of food and soft drinks, Mrs. Skillin told authorities. Officers said she told them Card bought a new sleeping bag and warm clothing for her and the children before taking them to the remote Northern California area where they were abandoned.

Card, who weighs a muscular 240 pounds, is accused of killing three members of a Butte County family.

Authorities say Willows veterinarian Clayton Griffiths and his daughter Lisa Ann were strangled with baling wire. Griffiths' wife, Nancy, was found shot to death in a field after taking $5,000 from the family's bank account, apparently to meet a ransom demand, authorities said.

Card was taken into custody Thursday at a flea market in Truckee.

Card did hear a dramatic broadcast plea by his father Wednesday to give himself up, Mrs. Skillin said.

"Yes, we heard it on a car radio," said Mrs. Skillin, a widow. Butte County Sheriff's Capt. Leroy Wood refused to allow the Skillins to describe Card's reaction to the broadcast.

Mrs. Skillin said Card used threats of harm to keep the family from trying to escape.

"He did it by reminding us that he was with one of us at all times. He did mention harm," she said. Wood did not allow a further explanation.

Mrs. Skillin said they were treated kindly during the journey. "Yes, he treated us well. He tried to make sure we were warm and well fed," she said.

She said they changed cars at least three times during their journey.

Mrs. Skillin said Card, who will be arraigned Monday in Glenn County, was not nervous during most of the journey.

"He was pretty much relaxed, especially when we were in Nevada and Utah," she said. She added they saw far fewer police officers on the roads when they were outside California.

3 girls struck by lightning; 1 killed, 2 hurt

NEW YORK (UPI)—A 15-year-old girl was killed and two young sisters were injured, one critically, Friday when they were struck by lightning at a lake in Central Park.

The dead girl was identified as Margaret Gonzales, 15. Injured were Adelen Stanatelos, 11, in critical condition, and her sister, Rosemary, 5, in fair condition.

Witnesses said the victims were struck in the vicinity of a municipal swimming pool. The two injured girls apparently had just left the water after swimming.

BLA role in slaying disclaimed

BERKELEY (AP) — A local radio station Friday broadcast a communique in which a group calling itself the Black Liberation Army disclaimed any responsibility for the killing of two white youths in Jacksonville, Fla., last month.

The message, broadcast on radio station KPFA, said:

"The execution of police officers, expropriation of banks and arms, have been some of the tactics used by the Black Liberation Army in its attempt to win the revolution in America.

"But never has the Black Liberation Army advocated or took part in senseless murder of innocent members of the community."

After Steven A. Orlando, 18, and Stephen Lamont Roberts, 17, were killed last month, police and news media received recordings from a group identifying itself as the BLA claiming responsibility for the slayings.

KPFA General Manager Roger Pritchard declined to say how the station received the message. He said he could not answer any questions about the communique and would not say whether it was in the form of a letter or a tape.

"In accordance with internal station policy, KPFA will not divulge how the information was received, or the form of the information.

"KPFA has not released to any press or law enforcement agency how the purported statement from the Black Liberation Army was received."

He described the message as "a statement apparently issued by the Black Liberation Army."

The Black Liberation Army was formed several years ago in New York City as a spinoff of the Black Panther Army.

The broadcast statement described the BLA as "an army of urban guerrillas, who fight the fascist and capitalist ruling class with arms, using conventional methods."

"POLICE officers have been a major target in the past because they are immediately recognizable agents of the oppressor in our communities, that oppresses us at will, but is licensed to oppress and is exempt from most of the laws of moral decency," the statement said.

"We do not condemn the brothers who carried out the executions in Jacksonville, Fla., for their acts, because we know the motivation behind it: a desire to fight for the freedom of black people, from racism, tyranny and oppression," said the message.

"The tapes that were sent out following the executions showed people that were so consumed by their hatred for the oppressors that they couldn't see past the skin color of the victim to determine whether he was a friend or foe."

The group said it understood why Orlando, the son of a New Jersey state trooper, was killed. "...We can understand how you can be oppressed in such a way and for so long that all you want to do is strike out."

POLICE said New York BLA members were involved in a May 2, 1973, shootout with officers at New Brunswick, N.J. They said young Orlando's body was found in Jacksonville June 17. He had been stabbed and shot. His father was not directly involved in the New Brunswick shooting or the subsequent capture of a BLA member later sentenced to life for killing an officer.

The BLA statement, read by news director Alan Shtow, also cited the acquittal of New York police officer Thomas Shea last month after trial on a murder indictment charging him the slaying of 10-year-old Clifford Glover, a black.

KPFK manager freed, glad 'issue narrowed'

By JIM GREIF Associated Press

A radio-station manager fighting a court order to hand over materials from two radical groups was freed Friday and said he was "happy that the issues have been narrowed to the First Amendment."

Will Lewis of station KPFK-FM walked out of Terminal Island Federal Correctional Facility on an order signed Thursday by U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, freeing him on his own recognizance pending appeal of his case to the Ninth U.S. Circuit Court.

His release came after Terminal Island officials received a Teletype message from the Federal Bureau of Prisons in Washington.

It takes until we exhaust our legal remedies," Lewis said. "The real issue in this case is the public's right to know."

Copies of the tape and letter were given to authorities, but KPFK refused to release the originals, saying it would endanger the station's credibility with news sources. Federal investigators said they wanted the originals to attempt to trace their source through fingerprints.

On the tape, Miss Hearst and William and Emily Harris talked of the deaths of six SLA comrades in a May 17 shootout with police and the FBI in Los Angeles. NEW YORK (UPI)—A 15-year-old girl was killed and two young sisters were injured, one critically, Friday when they were struck by lightning at a lake in Central Park.

The dead girl was identified as Margaret Gonzales, 15. Injured were Adelen Stanatelos, 11, in critical condition, and her sister, Rosemary, 5, in fair condition.

Witnesses said the victims were struck in the vicinity of a municipal swimming pool. The two injured girls apparently had just left the water after swimming.

Forget rock, get stoned DJs tippie for traffic again

NEW YORK (AP) — A disc jockey got drunk on the air here for the second Fourth of July in a row to discourage motorists from drinking while driving. One in Boston also tumbled for the traffic.

"I'm not a drinker at all," said WNEW jockey Ted Brown during his Thursday program. "I've only been drunk a few times. My wife, Renee, is a little upset about this, too."

"Last year, the first year I did this, was easier. I didn't know what would happen. This year I know. I'm going to be very sick. But if I can keep one person from driving after drinking it will be worth it."

Brown then tackled a fifth of scotch, under the watchful eye of a Bellevue Hospital nurse and two state police sergeants who took part in the program. The officers tested Brown's blood several times for alcohol content.

During the four-hour program, Brown became progressively befuddled. Once he put his earphones on backward. Later, he forgot the name of his station, as well as his home telephone number.

Just before the program's scheduled ending, Brown was cut off the air at 7:59 p.m. when he began weeping while thinking of his family.

"Last year, he started to cry at 7:15 p.m.," a colleague noted.

The Boston disc jockey who performed a similar stunt was Neil Cannon of WEZE, who described himself as a one-drink-a-night social tippler. He downed eight ounces of vodka in three hours during his regular afternoon show.

A nurse, a psychiatrist and experts from the state Department of Safety and the Boston Alcohol Safety Program kept Cannon company.

"We hope we can prevent some highway fatalities," Cannon told his audience, adding that he had never been drunk before in his life. "With humid, hot weather forecast and a long weekend, we expect a lot of people will be on the road and drinking. We think this show might make an impact on some of them ..."

After his seventh drink, Cannon declared: "Jesus, it's bad. I hope if you're driving you're heeding the warning we're trying to give you."

"Dis-gust-ing!" was Cannon's final observation before he went off the air with a final slug of vodka.

However, psychiatrist Velendy Maohar said Cannon still hadn't gotten drunk — legally. His alcohol level hit .07 after his final drink. Massachusetts rates a person drunk only when the level hits .10 or higher.

legion's national membership director, says, "the post can give the men some direction and establish contact with the outside world."

At a recent meeting in an aging cellhouse, 14 men wearing legion caps and green prison uniforms walked up to a barred door. A guard checked their names off a roster and admitted them to the cellhouse.

Warren rapped the gavel and two inmates carried the American flag and the Colorado state flag up the center aisle as the other post members saluted.

After a brief message from the post's inmate-chaplain, the prisoners pledged to defend the Constitution, maintain law and order and "perpetuate 100 per cent Americanism."

Asked why the convicted felons supported law and order so strongly, Wignall said, "I suppose it's little like being a reformed drinker. You get very adamant against drinking."

Legion post for law, order —even if they're prisoners

CANON CITY, Colo. (AP)—Members of American Legion Post 35 here pledge at their weekly meetings to uphold law and order.

The pledges are all made behind the walls at the Colorado State Penitentiary, where the members of Post 35 are serving time for crimes ranging from murder to the sale of narcotics. It's one of two prison legion posts in the country—the other is at Chester, Ill.

There are 41 inmate members of the post, in addition to Warden Alex Wilson, and a few guards. All are veterans, some from World War II, and a number from the Vietnam war.

Most of the members call themselves conservatives, and say the post provides a valuable social outlet for their views.

"The crime I committed wasn't committed against the flag," says Henry "Curly" Atwood, 57, who is serving eight to 12 years for aggravated robbery.

"We're incarcerated but we're still dedicated to the cause of freedom," says Tennyson Carter, 33, serving eight to 10 years for sale of narcotics.

James Warren, 30, is the post commander and is serving 18 to 25 years for burglary and assault. Asked about amnesty for draft evaders, he says: "Hell no! No amnesty. They can stay in Canada or come down to the penitentiary with us."

The post was organized in December 1970 and granted its permanent legion charter in October 1972. Lloyd Wignall, the legion's national membership director, says, "the post can give the men some direction and establish contact with the outside world."

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Fannie Atlas says she's kept so busy at summer camp that she doesn't have time to think about loneliness and dying. She's 93.

"I like to get out of the house. When you sit in the house you think maybe you'll die in the house by yourself," she says. But she enjoys herself so much at a senior adult camp "why should I think about that," she says.

Fannie, in her second year at the camp, is the oldest of a group of 39 enjoying the current four-week session. To be admitted to the camp, run by a combination of senior citizens' agencies, you must be at least 55 and be able to get on and off the bus by yourself.

Fannie, a widow who moved here from Mount Vernon, N.Y. three years ago, lives in Miami with her daughter, Rose Battfeld.

She spends her time at camp in the company of people like Rose Schlus-sel, 78; Sam Salmano-vitch, 86; and Rose Guarino, who'd rather not disclose her age.

They keep busy learning to swim, dance, make terrariums; making gifts in arts and crafts classes; pretending to be someone else in dramatic improvisations, and taking field trips to museums, concerts or art colonies.

Fannie Atlas likes the dance class this year, and she's so much more active than others, a counselor says, that she helps with some of the younger campers.

Now in its second year, the senior camp is supported primarily by the Jewish Federation and the United Fund. It is directed by social worker Arline Miller, who says "it's one of the most challenging and rewarding programs of its kind in the country."

Miss Miller, 29, says that senior citizens of today "are younger and more active, in spirit, than they were 20 years ago. They need to try everything new that they possibly can."

Briefly... It wasn't 1926, crusade heist, convention laugh

We should have known better after all these years as a newspaperman. Last week, we dug out an old photo of the Taubman Mens Bible Class to go with an article about the dedication of the Taubman bust at First Christian Church. We couldn't quite make out the faint date on the picture. It looked as if it might be 1926, so we gambled and called it a 1926 photo in the caption.

Wouldn't you know. It never fails. This week we received a friendly letter from Mrs. R. A. Benson of Lakewood, who wrote: "This isn't too important but thought perhaps it would be of interest. I have a print of this picture, it was my mother's. My father is in the picture, and since he was killed in an accident in 1923, I think there must be an error in the age of the picture that you printed. The picture has to be more than 50 years old."

Thank you for the correction, Mrs. Benson. Wouldn't some of today's leaders of Bible classes like to get that many men out on a Sunday morning? But those were the days before radio, TV, the Rams, and the greater availability of boating, golf, tennis and weekend trips. Long Beach still

NOBODY CAN accuse the new moderator of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S. (the Southern Presbyterians) of lacking a sense of humor. When Rev. Dr. Lawrence Bottoms of Decatur, Ga., first black to hold the position in the denomination, had the symbolic cross of leadership placed around his neck by his predecessor, he nearly broke up the convention by remarking: "I always get a little uneasy when a white man puts something around my neck."

UNITED METHODIST missionaries, meeting in conference, called on world Methodism "to repudiate the continued violation of human rights by the military junta of Chile." Gay Lutherans ask 'rights'

A group of Lutherans met in Minneapolis in June to form a new organization called "Lutherans Concerned for Gay People" to support the cause of homosexuals in the church, according to a news release from the founders.

The group said that the church has "misled, misunderstood, confused, alienated and unjustly condemned us, so that we have sometimes been driven to despair and robbed of the peace and joy which the gospel of Jesus Christ brings to all people."

The statement also said, "as gay Lutherans, we affirm with joy the goodness of human sexuality which God has given us."

BILL GLASS, former all-pro football star who will lead an eight-day crusade at El Camino Stadium beginning July 21, tells of an incident during his recent crusade in Ash-tabula, Ohio.

Hardware dealer Marvin Shick was crusade chairman, and one night his store was broken into (he had lost $7,000 in an earlier robbery). Police nabbed the two young men this time. Shick and his wife, in the spirit of the crusade, expressed concern for the burglars, both under 23. During a break in the crusade schedule, he drove Glass to the county jail 15 miles away to meet with them in their cell.

"They told me they had gotten involved in drugs and alcohol. Glass relates, "and didn't really know what they were doing." He counseled with them on the spot, and they prayed the acceptance prayer. "They had a real experience with God," the evangelist adds. "They know the Lord has forgiven them."

INTERVIEW WITH SOUTHLAND LEADER

American Baptists—what makes them different?

By LES RODNEY
Religion Editor

There are all kinds of Baptists, those most numerous of American Protestants. Sometimes you can't tell the players without a scorecard.

The American Baptist Churches, one major grouping, called themselves Northern Baptists up to 1950, reflecting a pre-Civil War split over slavery with their Southern brothers (who are still known as Southern Baptists, though they have churches in all 50 states and are also talking about changing their name, if they can figure one out that is not already taken.)

American Baptists are sometimes thought of as the intellectual Baptists, because of their stress on academic excellence in their ministry. They have been influential in national affairs, providing several presidents, and when fund raising time comes around they have families like the Rockefellers numbered among their members. They are certainly the most ecumenical-minded Baptists, and have been called the most liberal, though this last is not a characterization their Southern California leader particularly agrees with.

"AMERICAN BAPTIST churches are not 'liberal' in the sense of denying truths such as the Virgin Birth," said Rev. Dr. A. George Downing last week in an interview at the Southland denominational building in Los Angeles. "Our churches are basically Bible-centered, evangelistic and evangelic."

Downing, a Long Beach resident and former pastor of Immanuel Baptist Church over on East Third Street, has been the denomination's Southern California executive minister for 19 years. As director of church extension before that for seven years, he had something to do with organizing 60 new Southland churches in that time.

Asked how he would describe the ABC's distinctive quality, how he would reply to one asking in effect "why should I join you people?" Downing smiled and said he had been asked that very question the day before by a young minister thinking of switching from another denomination.

The reply, he said, was "All we have to offer is Jesus Christ."

But, the reporter suggested, any number of Christian bodies might say the same thing.

Downing nodded. "We take it a step further—there is, of course, more to being a Christian—and relate it to the workaday world with its problems and issues. I would say the average American Baptist minister does not have a closed mind to those issues."

American Baptists, he amplified, believe in a personal gospel of salvation, "but it does not end there. We don't feel you have the total gospel until you reach out to the total man—physical, moral, spiritual. That's how we view our mission."

As to differences between the "Northern" and Southern Baptists now that slavery is no longer an issue, he began by noting that there were many similarities, and that relations between the two are good and getting better. Just for instance, later this month there will be a meeting of American Baptists, Southern Baptists, the Baptist General Conference (the old Swedish Baptists) and the Conservative Baptist Association of America (which stresses the infallibility of the Old and New Testaments as the literal Word of God), along with some leaders of the Baptist World Alliance.

"There are some differences between us and the Southern Baptists in polity and thrust," he said. "I think perhaps our local churches have even more freedom. Well, here's one specific difference for you. We are ordaining women. The Southern Baptists voted not to."

Another difference is that the American Baptist Churches are affiliated nationally with the sometimes controversial National Council of Churches. One American Baptist church in Long Beach, in its advertisement in this paper, runs the standing line "Not affiliated with the National Council of Churches."

A prime example of the historic and jealously preserved Baptist tradition of grass roots autonomy, Downing said with a smile.

"ACTUALLY," HE added, "it is only the national that is affiliated, through the Valley Forge headquarters. Our Southern California district couldn't belong, it is under area jurisdiction and only national bodies belong. This is a little complicated to a non-Baptist, but anyhow, churches can contribute to the Council or not as they decide.

"In any case," he shrugged, "the National Council is a diminishing factor and issue in that sense. Now many churches that are not affiliated, utilize some of the Council's services." He smiled again. "The Southern Baptist Convention is one of the biggest buyers of biblical material put out by the National Council's radio and television ministry."

With all the profusion of Baptist names, there apparently are still plenty of the familiar all-Baptist similarities left. You would, for instance, expect Baptists to be in the forefront against pornography.

"Yes," Downing said, "we played a role in Los Angeles against the display of those so-called newspapers in the open racks on the streets. We made a presentation to the City Council. This is not censorship, but we objected to having it pushed out there for everyone to see on the public sidewalks." (In Long Beach, First Baptist Church played a key role in the petition drive along similar lines.)

"American Baptists are against the gay movement," the executive added, recalling a controversy two years ago in which, he related, a Baptist minister organized a homosexual church in Costa Mesa and tried to maintain a dual alignment for it as an American Baptist and Metropolitan Community (gay) church.

"Our board's position was that we are happy to work with and minister to any individual who desires help. But we cannot condone the homosexual movement, and by recognizing a group of them in an organized way, accept the principle of a gay church. We refuse to give sanction to it. This is a Christian position."

"The total Gospel"

IN GENERAL, Downing believes, American Baptists have been the most centrally in the tradition of Roger Williams, combining evangelistic fervor with emphasis on the American traditions of religious liberty and separation of church and state.

American Baptists must be doing something right. Downing reports that 1973 was their best year, including some new churches added in the Deep South.

"Here we have reorganized into the American Baptist Churches of the Pacific Southwest, and are negotiating to include Baja California, clear down to La Paz, now that the new road is open."

A native of Kansas City, Kans. who was ordained in Beatrice, Neb., he is the son of a Baptist minister, and his wife Dorothy is the daughter of a Baptist minister. The Downings sent two daughters through Lakewood High School.

American Baptists have had their share of hot theological arguments, but these hassles, Downing says, seem a thing of the past.

"We're more interested in how to face life and its issues from a Christian viewpoint. We are trying to understand the message of Jesus Christ in evangelical terms."

"There isn't quite the animosity on these things today. We ask those ministers who want in with us, what would Christ have us do in today's world? This is not liberal or conservative. We see it as just Christian."

Pope OKs liberal annul law for U.S.

By GEORGE CORNELL
AP Religious Writer

American Roman Catholic bishops have won an extension by the Vatican of easier, faster matrimonial court procedures which have increased by tenfold the number of annulments granted Catholics in this country.

Pope Paul VI decided to grant their petition for "the good of souls" by allowing continuation of the special procedures until a long-term project of revising Church canon law is completed.

The changes have produced "a revolution in the Catholic Church in the United States with regard to the processing of annulment cases," says Msgr. Stephen Kelleher, an authority on Church marriage law.

He said the number of annulments granted in this country has climbed from about 700 in 1969 to a current figure of about 7,000 annually.

Even this total is "only touching the tip of the iceberg," he added, noting conservative estimates that at least 100,000 Catholic marriages a year end in divorce, leaving those involved excluded from Communion if they remarry without a Church annulment of their prior union.

In Western Roman Catholicism, valid marriages are considered indissoluble. Divorce — except in rare instances — is not permitted. But marriages can be annulled if found invalid in the first place.

Moreover, the reasons for finding them invalid have expanded greatly to include various psychological factors indicated at the time of the wedding—such as "psychic irregularity" "lack of due discretion" and plain immaturity.

"With the development of psychiatry and psychology, we are learning more and more about what constitutes a person to be a fit subject for marriage," said Rev. John Docimare of the Chicago archdiocesan marriage tribunal told a convention of the Canon Law Society of America.

Methodists of N.L.B. greet new pastor

Rev. Dr. Carroll E. Word, Jr., religious and civic leader in the Saugus-Newhall area, has been appointed as senior minister of North Long Beach United Methodist Church and will preach his first sermon there Sunday. He fills the vacancy left by the retirement of Rev. Dr. Charles L. Boss. Dr. Word served for the past six years at Santa Clarita Church in Saugus. While there, he was elected to the local high school board of trustees with the largest vote any candidate had ever received in the district. For two years he was board president, and was also elected to the Delegate Assembly of the California School Board Association. He was active on the Castaic Regional Recreational.

Prior to that, Word pastored Alondra Park Church, during the time a new sanctuary was built.

A native of Kentucky, he was educated at the University of Kentucky, where he studied engineering, music and philosophy, at USC School of Religion, and after seminary, Boston University School of Theology, with a degree in social ethics and sociology.

He served for several years as vice president of the Board of Social Concerns of the Southland conference of the denomination, and has had several articles published.

He moves from Saugus to the somewhat cooler Long Beach area with his wife Carol, a music major graduate of Kentucky U. who is an accomplished organist and pianist, and four children ranging in age from 19 to 11.

Opera duo returns

Robert Hale, left, and Dean Wilder, noted national and international opera stars whose sacred concerts together have been hailed as a unique musical experience, return to Long Beach Sunday in a 7 p.m. concert at First Baptist Church of Lakewood, 5336 Arbor Road.

POSITIVE THINKING

by Norman Vincent Peale

How to stop making mistakes

Dale Carnegie once told me that he had a notion to write a book sometime entitled "Dumb Things I Have Done — By Dale Carnegie."

I told Dale that if I were to write on dumb things done by Norman Vincent Peale a whole series of books would be required. No doubt all of us at one time or another are embarrassed by mistakes we made. Mayor La Guardia once ruefully said, "When I make a mistake it's a beaut." I know that I have often had to ask myself, "Won't I ever really learn? Why, after all my experience, do I go on doing stupid things?"

WHAT IS THIS error tendency that persistently clings to our minds and occasionally breaks out causing us to do and say unwise and foolish things? In one sense, the big issue in the lives of all of us is the competition between error and truth. When error is in the saddle and rides us, we do dumb things and spend a lot of time regretting them. When truth is in control, we stay on the beam and handle life's problems masterfully.

Truth versus error — that is the decisive issue. How then can one increase his mental truth content and reduce the element of error in his mind?

One way is to look to extra-wise friends or loved ones and, even more importantly, cultivate the ability to listen to their wisdom. Some people are just naturally wise — or experience and serious thinking have made them so. Take time to talk things out with them before you rush into anything. This will prevent much finger burning and help you avoid many errors.

I must confess that I have done the best when I first took time to talk and listen to wise and thoughtful friends. When I have not consulted them, or have plunged ahead on my own, I have found myself in plenty of hot water.

Think things out with someone whose judgment you know to be sound. The best formula is to think and talk and delay and pray. That policy is the best insurance against mistakes.

This relationship with wise people is so valuable that their minds may actually continue to be available to you even after their death. Their mental slant and thinking process through long association seems to make a lasting impression upon your own consciousness, so that even though departed their wise counsel is still yours.

Some time ago I was under great stress in trying to think through a complicated situation. I was riding in our car, my wife driving, and neither of us had said a word for a number of miles, being both lost in thought. Suddenly I felt a strong desire to talk with my father dead since 1955. I said to my wife, "Ruth, I wish I could talk this over with Dad. He was one of the wisest men I ever knew."

After a long pause she finally said, "Actually, don't we know what he would say and how he would think about this problem?" We then discussed what his attitude would be and we each had an unmistakable impression of the advice he would give. We decided to do as we believed he would advise, and as a result, a very difficult matter began to show improvement.

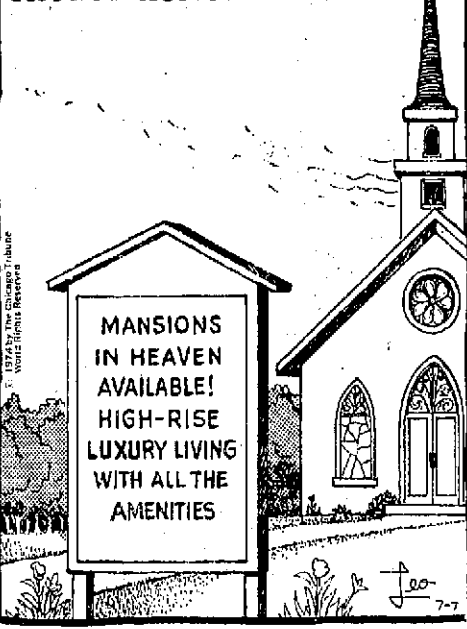

IF THIS KIND of experience is possible on the human level, how very much more powerful it can be on the spiritual level. We actually have available to us the mind of God as we struggle with life's difficult problems. In the Bible we read "Thou shalt guide me with Thy counsel."

To know the mind of God it is necessary to think according to God's thought pattern, and this is done by saturating the mind with the great thoughts of the Bible. The sum total of these thoughts will ultimately color your mind creating in you a harmony with God through which divine guidance can come to you on specific problems. Those who really 'go to school' to the Bible finally become people of more than human wisdom.

In addition to this I have noticed that individuals who talk over their problems in prayer and sincerely seek God's guidance, gain insights that really change things. So we do not need to accept our ineptness or continue making so many mistakes. As we develop inward truth, the error tendency will lessen.

Sorry, friends, we must operate by deadlines and cannot consider for publication any material not received by Thursday noon.

PHI BETA'S CRUSADE

'Seeing self child of God really changes your day'

By BARBRALU FRIED
Ridder News Service

BOULDER, COLO.—A spiritual renaissance is coming, according to Vern Bennon Grimsley, president of the Family of God Foundation, Berkeley, Calif.

That doesn't mean the world will be filled with peace and joy by next year, he says. But he expects the gradual acceptance of God in everyday lives of individuals to slowly produce a bigger change on the planet than any war or invention produced.

Grimsley, a Phi Beta Kappa graduate in philosophy and psychology from the University of Kansas, tours campuses and broadcasts on 55 radio stations throughout the world. He proclaims his message of "the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man."

Brethren ask no arms to Vietnam

ROANOKE, Va. — An appeal to the government to guard against "re-intervention in Indochina" and to "honor the restraints of the Paris Peace Agreement" was approved by delegates to the Church of the Brethren annual conference.

Noting that the Church of the Brethren is a "peace church" and that "our government, though having signed the Paris Peace Agreement, has continued to finance by ninety percent the Thieu government and its military operations," the petition specifically asked delegates to support legislation to (1) preclude direct U.S. military involvement, (2) to encourage a political settlement "by withholding nonhumanitarian aid to either party in South Vietnam" and (3) to end U.S. police aid used in funding police and prison systems in Indochina.

therhood of God and the brotherhood of man."

The renaissance will come, he says, when people agree on the two basic tenets in Deuteronomy and Leviticus: "I am the Lord thy God," and "love thy neighbor as thyself."

"It really changes your day to walk down the street thinking you're a child of God and the people you see are your brothers and sisters," Grimsley smiled.

No radical religious freak, Grimsley, 32, speaks quietly and unhesitatingly, quoting his own poetry and writings, welcoming questions that "nail me to the wall." He is dressed in tie, shoes and straight pants and a leather jacket whose snaps jingle with his occasional gestures. His short, blond hair obeys the order imposed by a comb.

"We all contain a spark of spirit, a spark of the infinite, between our hair-cuts and our toenails," Grimsley said. To acknowledge that spark, to recognize guidance from God is "an audacious faith," he said. "To feel infinitely loved by God and valuable is a resolution of what Eric Erikson calls 'the identity crisis'."

Baha'i martyr is remembered

Baha'is of Long Beach will join with their fellow believers around the world Tuesday in observing the anniversary of "the martyrdom of the Bab."

The Baha'is consider the Bab, whose title means Gate, a divine messenger and the herald of a new era. On July 9, 1850, he was executed by a firing squad in a public square in Tabriz, Iran.

His remains are interred in Haifa, Israel, where the international headquarters of the sect are located.

GAY PLEA

lor at Gustavus Adolphus College in St. Peter, Minn., were elected coordinators of the group. Both are professed homosexuals.

Lutheran churches have traditionally condemned homosexuality as sinful. A 1970 statement adopted by the Lutheran Church in America says that homosexuality is a departure from the "structure of God's creation." However, that statement notes that homosexuals are often the "special and undeserving victims of prejudice and discrimination," and said that "such persons are entitled to understanding and justice in church and community."

The American Lutheran Church, in a 1970 study from its Commission on Research and Social Action, also said that homosexual behavior was "contrary to God's creation," but asserted that the church must express "pastoral love and concern for the person."

The 1973 convention of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod adopted a resolution to "recognize homophiles' behavior as intrinsically sinful" because "God's word clearly identifies homophile behavior as immoral and condemns it" and "the law and the gospel of Jesus Christ are to be proclaimed and applied to all conditions of mankind."

The synod urged, it said, "that the law and the gospel of the scriptures be applied to homophiles as appropriate with a view toward ministering the forgiveness of our Lord Jesus Christ to any and all sinners who are penitent."

is sunday school out-of-date?
It's never out-of-date to understand God, and man, and the true nature of the universe. This understanding is what young people up to the age of 20 gain in our Sunday School. They're taught a warm and practical Christianity, and how to apply it to everyday problems. And as they study the Bible, together with Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, they're preparing to help solve the world's problems in the most forward-looking, fresh, and effective way. Wouldn't you like your children to visit this Sunday?

Jury deadlocks in trial of credit rating concerns

NEW YORK (UPI)—A federal court jury said Friday it was "hopelessly deadlocked" over the question of whether two defendants, including the nation's largest private credit-rating concern, were involved in a scheme estimated to have cost the federal government $200 million in foreclosed mortgages.

Several other persons had been convicted earlier, but the jury failed to reach a verdict on the alleged involvement of Dun and Bradstreet, the largest private rating concern in the country, and Arthur Prescott, former manager of the Dun and Bradstreet office in Hempstead, N.Y.

Judge Anthony J. Travia urged the panel to return to the jury room in an effort to reach a verdict. But about 20 minutes later, the jury again declared itself deadlocked.

After the verdict, Dun and Bradstreet issued a statement saying in part: "The government failed to prove its case. We are naturally disappointed, however, that the jury did not return a unanimous vote for acquittal."

Said Prescott: "I knew I hadn't done anything wrong. I slept and ate like a baby."

The indictment said the scheme involved the procurement of false credit records, false appraisals and inflated mortgages on rundown houses in Brooklyn and Queens.

The buyers, mostly low-income blacks and Puerto Ricans, were unable to maintain mortgage payments or pay for repairs on houses that were in poor condition.

This led to the foreclosure of many mortgages, the government charged, and the Federal Housing Agency, which had insured the mortgages, took the loss.

30,000 import cars jam port: no sale

HOUSTON (UPI)—A jam of more than 30,000 imported automobiles with no place to go because of a decline in foreign car sales has turned the Port of Houston into an overcrowded parking lot.

With 10,000 more expected this month, importers are scrambling to grab what little parking acreage there is left.

"There is no more space for them. Period," one importer said. "And we are expecting big shipments this month."

"We just beat out our competition for some space. Are they mad," another said.

Not only are the port's lots almost full, but available lots across the city are fast filling up. And the demand has caused the inevitable.

"They are going up on their prices," said Mazda port representative Jim McBride.

IMPORTERS said the glut of new cars was caused by declining sales, off 30 to 40 per cent nationwide, leaving no room at dealerships for the new arrivals.

They attribute the decline to rising labor costs and exchange rates abroad which have increased the costs of cars at a time when U.S. drivers are reluctant to buy because of fuel shortages and inflation.

"In January and February, we were selling a lot of cars," said Volkswagen port representative Pat Jasek. "So the manufacturers made their plans to produce more. Then sales slowed 'way down."

In an attempt to make room for more cars, Jasek said, his company was shipping new imports to Dallas and Denver. Normally the cars only are moved to fill dealers' orders.

McBride said the current oversupply of foreign cars will not mean lower prices to consumers.

"Even moving the cars another five miles increases our costs," he said. "Importers and transporters have to pay interest on the cars and storage costs. Every time you move one it means wages and maintenance."

GUN THEFT BAFFLING

Guard spokesmen said it would be difficult for the burglars to come by the pins and bolt assemblies.

Compton police, however, took the opposite view.

"Most of the bigger gun shops stock replacements," said one officer. "It's just like if your car needs a new carburetor, you can go to an auto parts dealer and buy one."

Authorities, meanwhile, established there was no link between the burglary and three Mexican nationals arrested and accused of attempting to ship 34 military rifles to Guadalajara, Mex.

CUSTOMS agents—who would not elaborate—said the rifles definitely were not those taken in Compton.

One of the three men arrested, Manuel Melendez, 32, will be charged with illegally exporting firearms, agents said, and another, Ignacio Leon, 33, will be charged with aiding and abetting in the crime.

The third, Ricardo Perez, 23, a janitor for a

Los Angeles cement company, will be turned over to immigration authorities as an illegal alien. Agents indicated Perez turned out to be "only a bystander."

The National Guard Bureau in Washington said there were 110 "forced intrusions" into guard armories in 1971 and that 3,365 of the guard's 4,333 arms vaults have been equipped with burglar alarms since then.

ALARMS were being installed at the Compton armory, they said, but the job was only about three-quarters complete.

Police said they could not help but wonder if the burglary was carried out by a terrorist group like the Symbionese Liberation Army.

Six SLA members died in a May 17 shootout with police in Los Angeles and authorities believe fugitive newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst, 21, and two SLA members, William Harris, 28, and his wife, Emily, 27, may be hiding in the Los Angeles area.

AUTHORITIES also were reminded that 31 guns and 1,000 rounds of ammunition were found in student lockers at UCLA. A former student, Charles Singer, 29, was ultimately booked in the case.

"It is frightening to think that this arsenal might fall into the wrong hands," said Compton Police Sgt. John Prandin.

Lt. Col. Andrew Wolf, a spokesman for the guard, said armories usually are left unattended after normal business hours because the Army "just cannot afford to man them around the clock."

Food stamp eligibles get 'cost of living' increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—People receiving government food stamps got a cost-of-living raise this week, but officials say the benefits will be slow getting to all who would be eligible.

Congress ordered the Agriculture Department in new farm legislation last summer to make semiannual adjustments in food stamp benefits to help poor people keep up with rising living costs. Previously adjustments were made only once a year.

The first boost came last Jan. 1, equivalent to a 22 per cent increase in monthly food stamp allowances for a family of four. The increase, amounting to $26, put the stamp allocation at $142 per month.

On Monday the scale went up again by 5.6 per cent for a four-member family to $150 per month. A family is required to buy part of the monthly coupons at rates based on income and is given bonus stamps to boost its spending at grocery stores.

Although the semi-annual increases are automatic for those who are enrolled in the program, there are at least 1.6 million others who would be eligible immediately if local authorities would accept the new form of federal assistance. Many counties still operate older commodity donation systems. While all but two counties have switched or have agreed to switch to food stamps, there has been a lag in the actual issue of stamps in those which have given consent.

A spokesman for the department's Food and Nutrition Service said that of 1.6 million person still receiving the old government-donated commodities in May, the most recent month tabulated, about 592,000 were in Puerto Rico.

The remainder were in areas where county officials have already agreed to switch to food stamps but have not yet started to do so, and among some Indian tribes which have not yet decided on which plan to accept, the spokesman said.

Even so, under pressure from Congress, the food stamp program has made dramatic gains in recent years. Officials said 13.2 million persons received stamps in May, double the participants in 1970 and quadruple those in 1969.

As food stamp enrollment has risen, so have costs. Counting the July 1 boost in benefits, the 1974-75 spending may be around $4.3 billion, up more than $1 billion from last fiscal year.

The two counties which have not accepted food stamps—excluding Puerto Rico—are Butler County in Alabama; where a commodity donation program has been operated and Beaver County, Okla., which has not had any type of government family food program.

Agency officials said, however, both of those counties soon may agree to food stamps.

NAACP supports impeachment panel

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The NAACP Friday took a moderate stand in support of the House Judiciary Committee investigation of charges against President Nixon, although some members favored a position urging impeachment.

The vote, by 3,000 delegates during the final day of the organization's 65th annual convention, endorsed a statement by the group's board of directors last January that: "Inquiry into the possibility and the process of impeachment must go forward in the House Judiciary Committee in a sober and impartial search for the truth."

LOS ANGELES Mayor Tom Bradley addressed the closing session of the five-day convention, calling for more black leaders in American government. He did not mention Nixon or the federal government but said there was a need for more black mayors.

Delegates seeking a strong pro-impeachment approach, led by former NAACP Treasurer Alfred Baker Lewis of Connecticut, broke the convention's orderly proceedings with their demand for a floor vote on the issue.

"When is this convention going to consider a resolution on impeachment of the President?" Lewis asked as the delegates were considering other, less volatile matters in routine fashion.

HIS REMARK generated immediate applause and cheers.

Parliamentary tactics blocked Lewis, however, and he was unable to force a formal vote on his hastily drafted impeachment resolution, written on hotel stationery, because convention officers refused to declare it an emergency matter.

They called instead for a vote to endorse or reject the directors' position, and it passed overwhelmingly.

"They were afraid to accept my resolution," Lewis said.

STATE JOBS

have in past years," the department added.

The nation's unemployment rate clung stubbornly at 5.2 per cent in June, virtually the same level of the past six months.

Despite widespread fears that job cutbacks associated with the energy crisis would push unemployment to the 8 to 10 per cent range, the jobless rate has hovered around the 5 per cent plateau since January.

Chairman Herbert Stein of President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers called the trend "one of the most gratifying economic developments of 1974 so far."

Even Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., one of the administration's most persistent critics, said the June report was "a pleasant surprise."

Unemployment actually increased sharply in June as vacationing students surged into the labor market looking for summer work. But the influx was no bigger than in past years and thus did not influence the seasonally adjusted unemployment figures.

In numerical terms, about 4.8 million Americans were out of a job in June, according to the monthly survey of the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS).

By contrast, there were 86.2 million jobholders, slightly more than in May and nearly one-half million more than in April.

Among the various age groups, teen-agers led the unemployment rolls: About 15.6 per cent of youngsters 16-19 years were out of work in June.

For white teen-agers the figure was 14 per cent but for blacks it was 30 per cent, the BLS said.

"Deploable," exclaimed Proxmire at a Joint Economic Committee hearing. "It's too late now but that's a powerful argument on behalf of a (federal) program of summer employment."

Jobless rates in other labor force groups were roughly the same as in May — household heads, 3.1 per cent; adult men, 3.5 per cent; adult women, 5.1 per cent; white workers, 4.8 per cent, and black workers, 8.8 per cent.

On the wage side, average hourly earnings for blue collar workers rose 3 cents in June to $4.47 and are now 30 cents above the level of June, 1973.

Weekly earnings averaged $154.71 last month, up $3.19 from May and $9.97 in the past 12 months, the BLS said.

U.S. official in Cuba

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The chief of staff of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee is in Cuba, the first time a congressional official has visited there since Cuba under Premier Fidel Castro and the United States severed relations.

Pat M. Holt, an expert on Latin American affairs, has been in Cuba for about a week. Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., said Holt went to Cuba to "take a look at things there."

Fulbright said the State Department had refused permission for the trip for "a long time" but finally gave its consent.

"It does not have any earthshaking significance," a committee spokesman said. He added that Holt knew Cuba from the pre-Castro era and could make comparisons for the committee.

Canning firm developer dies

SACRAMENTO (AP)—The death of Thomas H. Richards Sr., developer of the largest independently owned food cannery in California, was reported Friday.

Richards, 77, died Thursday at Sutter General Hospital.

Army's 1st black, woman chaplain

FT. MCPHERSON, Ga. (AP)—The U.S. Army said Friday that its first woman chaplain, the Rev. Alice M. Henderson of Atlanta, will be commissioned here next week.

The Rev. Henderson will also have the distinction of being its first black woman chaplain.

L.A. Council president's condition still serious

Los Angeles City Council President John S. Gibson Jr., 72, of San Pedro, remained in serious but stable condition Friday at San Pedro Peninsula Hospital after suffering a heart attack Thursday, a hospital spokesman said.

The spokesman said Gibson was resting comfortably in the hospital's coronary care unit. The councilman was reported to be conscious but unable to receive visitors other than his immediate family.

Gibson has served on the council since 1951 and has been president for 12 years. He was sworn in for another two-year term—serving the 5th District in the Harbor area—on July 3, 1973.

U.S. makes school fund rule retroactive

By WALT MURRAY
Staff Writer

Federal auditors who recommended that the Long Beach Unified School District pay back $517,252 in allegedly misused U.S. education funds are unfairly applying present guidelines to past years' expenditures, the city's top school official charged Friday.

W. Odie Wright, superintendent of schools, said that state education officials sharply disagree with federal auditors on how much money should be paid back.

Thus the school district "will honor only those parts of the audit ultimately approved by the state," he said.

Meanwhile, detailed examination of the audit report showed that the major expenditures that got Long Beach schools in hot water were the partial financing of the construction of College Intermediate School with federal funds and the use of federally financed portable bungalows at allegedly unauthorized school sites.

THE 28-PAGE report recommended that the school district give back $198,856 used in building the Intermediate School and $214,028 for 11 bungalows that were allegedly misused.

However, state Department of Education officials whose comments were included in the audit report said that only a fraction of the funds under scrutiny were actually misused and should be repaid. Most of the money spent for the Intermediate School was legal, they said. So was the use of most bungalows.

Officials of the Unified School District are resting their defense primarily on the state officials' comments.

The audit report was drawn up by the western regional office of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare in San Francisco, which recently has examined the compensatory education programs of Pasadena, Hayward and Long Beach schools.

The basic outline of the audit report was made public last week, but the specific charges contained in it weren't known until Friday.

The Long Beach expenditures in question were made in compensatory education programs that were aimed at increasing the learning of disadvantaged children in central city schools during 1968-72.

The auditors recommended refunds on grounds that the school district allegedly violated federal statutes in spending some of the $5 million in U.S. funds it received for that purpose during those four years.

Although the recommendations for the largest refunds involved buildings and supplies, the auditors also criticized accounting procedures used in keeping track of $4.5 million spent for salaries, wages and fringe benefits for compensatory education employees.

A portion of that money also may have to be returned, the auditors indicated.

The money in question was granted to the school district under Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, the major federal aid program for low-achieving children in geographical areas with concentrations of low-income families.

Since the program is administered through the State Department of Education, refunds technically would come from the state, although the school district presumably would have to reimburse the state in turn.

Long Beach schools have been in the program since its inception in 1965. About 5,600 children in nine public and two private schools received Title I aid last school year.

WRIGHT SAID that the audit report does not state that the school district intentionally misused funds or that it failed to get prior state approval for spending the money.

"Just the opposite is true," Wright said. "In fact, State School Supt. Wilson Riles last spring called the Long Beach Title I program the best he'd seen."

Wright said that seven previous audits by independent certified public accountants under the direction of the state Department of Finance gave the Long Beach program "a clean bill of health for careful management and judicious use of funds."

"Since the inception of federal funding for the disadvantaged, this school district has adhered strictly to state guidelines," Wright said.

"It is unreasonable for the federal government to step in years later and attempt to impose new guidelines and accounting procedures upon proper expenditures of past years. The state and federal governments conflict on this point."

In short, another school official said, the expenditures that were made during 1968-72 were legal when they were made, although they may not be legal under new rules that became effective in 1973.

Wright said the salary accounting procedures that the U.S. criticized have been changed to meet the auditors' recommendations. The state officials had concurred with the auditors in that criticism.

The school district may acquire some of the facilities that had been financed by Title I, Wright said. The auditors were critical of the district's continuing use of some of the facilities without compensating the U.S.

The federal report stated that the purpose of the audit was to see if the Title I program "was conducted effectively and efficiently and whether the management controls over the expenditures of federal funds were adequate."

On many counts, the answer was clearly no, according to the report.

It alleged that some federal funds were used for items not essential to the Title I program and that some U.S. money had been used in place of local and district funds for some expenses. Both types of expenditures violate federal statutes, the auditors said.

THE AUDITORS took issue with the district's expenditure of $198,856 to fund half the construction costs of College Intermediate School, a "demonstration school" in the city's central district.

The money provided facilities that should have been built with local funds and half the students who attend the school—and benefit from the expenditure—are not in the Title I program, the auditors said.

They said two additional purposes of CIS were to alleviate overcrowding at Lincoln and Burnett schools and to promote better racial balance there, goals which are "outside the program objectives of Title I."

The auditors also objected to $9,926 in Title I funds that were spent to remodel the Lincoln administration building and $38,150 used for various instructional, maintenance and transportation services.

State officials, commenting in the audit report, said they agreed that the $38,150 should be returned, but said that only $17,856 from the CIS project and $926 from the Lincoln remodeling should be given back.

In the CIS construction, the expenditure of $181,000 in Title I funds was approved by the state Department of Education, the state officials said. They said that Title I funds are spent for the disadvantaged students who make up half of CIS' enrollment and that there was no ruling then against using Title I funds to desegregate.

The auditors also charged that items such as portable bungalows that were no longer needed for Title I students—and were still in use by the school district—had not been purchased from the U.S. after they had been abandoned in Title I programs.

"The program (Title I) did not receive funds which could have been made available by disposing of unneeded equipment, and target (Title I) children were deprived of the benefits that could have been obtained from the use of the Title I equipment," the report stated.

As in many of the alleged fund misuses, the bungalow problem occurred because there were no formal procedures to dispose of equipment that was no longer needed, the report stated. In addition, it said, the district had lost track of the location of some equipment.

THE AUDITORS said they wanted back $214,028 of the $382,356 given for building 18 bungalows for Title I children. They said the repayment was being asked for 11 bungalows that had been removed from the Title I program.

However, state officials cited a state guideline that allows Title I equipment to be used in "continuing compensatory education projects" that are now locally funded but were originally federally funded.

In their criticism of the school district's accounting procedures, the auditors said that bookkeeping was "not adequate to provide support for payroll costs claimed under the Title I program."

"As a result, we could not express an opinion as to the acceptability of the $1.5 million claimed as salaries, wages and fringe benefits for the period of our audit," the report stated. The auditors said the district should provide "sufficient documentation" to support salary expenditures and indicated that money which can't be justified should be paid back.

The audit report stated that the school district's Title I program was "generally effective" in achieving its intended results, and city school officials said they felt that should be emphasized.

"What is most important is that children from disadvantaged backgrounds are achieving almost double what they would be expected to achieve without Title I help," Wright said.

"The audit highlights stress that participants achieved an average of 1.3 months learning gain in reading and arithmetic for each month they were in the program."

The audit report stated that students who had been achieving in the lowest fourth of their classes made an average 1.5 months learning gain for each month of instruction.

Wright said there was "no question" that the Long Beach Title I program "continues to produce superior results in disadvantaged children."

"An increase, not a decrease, in federal support is merited," he said.

The People vs. Pollution

This case of people power versus carbon monoxide, ozone, et al. has not been tried by judge or jury but the couple pedaling their way up Junipero Avenue from the beach win glances of admiration (maybe even envy) from mundane motorists, many of whom just might be accessories to the fact if the case were to reach a courtroom. And the two unidentified pedalers, caught in action by staff photographer Robert Ginn, could even be witnesses for the prosecution.

Hearing Monday on energy measure

L.B. may reactivate waterfalls

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

A move to try and resume operation of the decorative lighting and waterfalls on two Long Beach oil islands will be recommended to the city's Bureau of Franchises at its meeting Monday at 9:30 a.m. in the City Hall council chamber.

The city has been receiving numerous letters and petitions in recent weeks, urging that the lights and waterfalls be turned back on, even if only on a limited basis.

Colored lighting and waterfalls on Islands Grissom and White were turned off by the city last December to conserve energy. Later, the State Public Utilities Commission issued an order prohibiting use of electrical energy for such purposes.

Recently, the PUC modified its order to permit use of energy for fountains and waterfalls, but not for decorative lighting, according to Louis Posner, chief engineer of the Bureau of Franchises.

Harry Fulton, special assistant to the city manager and chairman of the manager's committee on conservation, asked the bureau staff to investigate the possibility of operating the lighting and waterfalls on the two islands on a limited basis.

Posner said the city would prefer to operate both lighting and fountains on a three-hour nightly schedule rather than operating the waterfalls on a longer schedule, as permitted by the PUC order.

"This would result in a substantial savings in power, but would require a deviation from the present rules as set forth by the PUC," Posner said.

Since the bureau represents the city on matters before the PUC, Posner said, he will ask Monday that he be authorized to make a formal request to the state commission for permission to operate both.

an ethnic minority on the city council, board of education or various commissions, Brooks said.

What's wrong with more than one member of a minority on a governing board? he asked.

Brooks, himself a black, noted, though, that more minorities are "in positions of visibility and influence" in Long Beach and granted that "accelerated progress has been made toward insuring equality."

He cited the Affirmative Action program which seeks to achieve the employment of more minority personnel.

"People at the mass and power level are getting used to seeing minorities perform in nontraditional roles," Brooks said.

Equality efforts 'hampered'

By GLENN LEIBOWITZ

Fieldness on the part of human rights advocates can be detrimental to blacks, Chicanos, the poor and other minorities, the new acting director of the Denver regional office of U.S. Commission on Civil Rights says.

Joseph T. Brooks, who resigned last week as vice chairman of the Long Beach Planning Commission to accept the new post, said persons who have the best interests of minorities in mind often cancel progress they make because of their on-again, off-again interest in a wide variety of equality causes.

Brooks complained that no single minority receives enough attention to allow it to achieve complete equality.

"People who are inclined to liberal causes look for new areas of interest," Brooks said in a telephone interview from Salt Lake City. "They may give all their attention to blacks for awhile, then to women and then to ecological concerns."

All the while, he said, the previous cause is abandoned and often left only slightly better off than it was before it caught the fancy of well-meaning but fickle citizens.

Commenting specifically on the situation in Long Beach, the longtime human rights advocate said that while minorities are more accepted by the majority in positions of

Coast panel to rule on Dow plant project

By KRIS SHERMAN
Staff Writer

A major renovation of facilities at the Dow Chemical Co. plant on Terminal Island is among several industrial and residential developments to be considered by regional coastal commissioners Monday.

They will convene at 9 a.m. in the sixth-floor board room at the Long Beach Harbor Administration Building, 925 Harbor Plaza Drive.

Though several applications for local construction are scheduled for public hearings, some could be postponed until a time when more commissioners can be present.

THE 12-MEMBER commission has been plagued by absences since the beginning of June.

One commissioner, Torrance City Councilman Dr. Donald Wilson, will be overseas on business for the remainder of the summer, while other commissioners have been absent due to vacation or illness.

Commissioner Ron Caspers, an Orange County Supervisor, has been missing since June 14, when the motor yacht he and nine other persons were aboard apparently broke up and sank in heavy seas off Baja California.

Since all projects require at least seven affirmative votes for approval, commissioners often conduct public hearings but postpone final action until more commissioners are present.

That unwritten policy, initiated by Chairman Dr. Donald Bright, allows a developer what he terms "fairest possible chance" of having a project approved.

But it also, as the commission record shows, creates a backlog of applications, many of which have been bogged down for several weeks, sometimes months.

Some developers have been known to sit through marathon, 14-hour commission meetings only to find they must return again for the voting process.

NEVERTHELESS, the commission tries to maintain a "business as usual" attitude, according to its members. Monday's agenda is no exception.

The Dow Chemical application seeks permission for the construction of a bulk terminal and transfer facility—to consist of 43 additional chemical holding tanks, rail and truck loading facilities—at 305 Henry Ford Ave.

Also scheduled for public hearing is an application by Holly Hill Development Co. for the construction of a 7-story, 36-unit condominium at 111 Pebble Beach Road, Avalon, on Catalina Island.

Only last week, construction on the island drew the interest of Bright, who said he thought commissioners "ought to know what is master-planned over there."

Though Bright then referred to an application requesting the undergrounding of telephone cables, he expressed concern about "the amount of construction going on in that area."

A portion of another project that has drawn commissioners' criticism in the past—sewer and force mains in the San Pedro area—is also scheduled to be heard Monday.

That application, made by the Los Angeles Bureau of Engineering, asks permission for the installation of 4,800 feet of sewer and 500 feet of force mains along the future alignment of John S. Gibson Blvd.

Commissioners earlier chastized the city for bringing before them portions of the Harbor Area Sewer System "piece by piece and pipe by pipe."

ORANGE County projects on the agenda include three applications by Charles Hermansen for the construction of two, 4-unit apartment buildings at 114 and 118 20th St.; one 4-unit apartment building at 209 20th St.; and another 4-unit structure at 120 14th St., all in Huntington Beach.

Park greens to be rebuilt

An architectural agreement with William P. Bell & Son of Pasadena for the reconstruction of three more greens at the Recreation Park 18-hole golf course has been approved by the Long Beach City Council.

The reconstruction program began about four years ago, and 12 greens already have been rebuilt, according to Dick McAllister, city golf superintendent.

The present agreement covers the greens on holes Nos. 2, 11 and 13. Bell & Son will prepare plans for the work, lay out the greens and supervise construction until they are ready for use.

Backpacking class still has openings

A few openings remain in the backpacking class, which will be held Tuesday and Wednesday at Whaley Park, 5620 E. Atherton St., and will wind up with a weekend pack trip to Hidden Lake in the Lone Pine area.

One of the best features of the class is that wilderness permits already have been issued to the class guides, said Katy Stone, leader in charge at Whaley Park. Miss Stone explained that backpackers are not being allowed in certain mountain areas without permits, and it can take up to 60 days to get one.

The class, sponsored by the Long Beach Recreation Department, will consist of lectures Tuesday and Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m. on such subjects as selection and gear of equipment, map reading, and avoiding dangers on the trail.

Instructors Mark Stuart, John Martin, and Katy Stone will then take the class on the Hidden Lake trip from Friday through Sunday, July 12-14.

Enrollment is limited to 20 persons. The fee is $20.

ROSE PARADE

ARIZONA

Three roses share All-America honors

Champion Roses

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Three major rose classes share in the 1975 All-America Selections Awards! With high scores in all three of the major rose classes All-America honors were equally divided, with a hybrid tea, a floribunda, and a grandiflora each winning the coveted award.

Award winning roses are the Emmys and the Oscars of the rose world. Many roses are picked to enter the competition, but few are chosen.

The AARS maintains 23 test gardens throughout the United States. Four plants of each rose to be tested are entered in these trial gardens by hybridizers from all parts of the country. Plants are scored and judged by impartial and qualified judges for a period of two years. A winner must excel on all of these 13 points — habit, vigor, disease resistance, novelty, floriferousness, foliage, flower form, bud form, substance, color opening, color finishing, stem and fragrance.

ONLY a privileged few are entitled to wear the special tag that is the badge of honor bestowed by All-America Selections on the prize winning roses.

The 1975 winners are ARIZONA, OREGOLD, and ROSE PARADE.

ARIZONA, a grandiflora with delightfully fragrant tea roses blossoms in a combination of bronze and copper with shadings of yellow, red, and pink and orange are as colorful as one of the magnificent sunsets of the state for which it was named. The Arizona was originated by Ollie Weeks of Ontario.

OREGOLD from Germany by Matthias

Tantau, is a deep pure yellow hybrid tea. It is the only deep yellow in any rose classification to win such an award since King's Ransom in 1962. Only other winner since then was the soft sunrise-yellow hybrid, a tea rose Apollo in 1972.

ROSE PARADE is truly a floribunda — a compact shapely two to three foot bush, with masses of light coral pink blossoms with shadings of peach. It varies considerably in color depending upon the area and climate. The Rose Parade hybridizer is J. Benjamin Williams of Silver Spring, Md. Williams is a rose expert and an independent horticultural consultant.

AARS 1975 winners are making news all over the place. A large focal bed of Rose Parade was planted at the Tournament of Roses house on the old Wrigley Estate in Pasadena. This is surrounded by a border of a new Ralph Moore miniature named Max Colwell in honor of the retiring Secretary of Tournament of Roses. The garden is a joint endeavor of the AARS and AARS public rose garden committee.

Rose hobbyists groom their roses at least every two days when the plants are blooming. The full blown blooms are cut off just before the petals begin to drop. This garden chore removes the possible slowdown of active growth, otherwise some of the energy growth would go into the formation of the rose seed "hips" — seed pods. Such action robs full maximum growth of the plant for the next crop of blossoms.

The gardener doesn't carelessly cut off the full blown blooms. He'll try to cut off those old flowers down to a desirable bud as if he were pruning the bush, for balance and shape as well as for future long-stemmed flowers.

Gardeners usually time the feeding by doing it as the crop of flower buds have formed well, or are beginning to bloom. This helps the future growth to grow better, and also aids in better formation of the future crop of flowers. He always makes sure he fertilizes them after the plants have had a generous drink of water. The rose food is lightly scratched into the soil, NOT CULTIVATED in.

Manure still is one of the best of top dressings around the roses provided the manure isn't fresh, but has been well composted down and the possible salts leached out. The top dressing chokes out weed growth, retains the moisture as well as maintaining a more even moisture content in the soil, and provides a gentle feeding action. Some of it, ever so slowly, filters down into the top soil and prevents the soil itself from crusting.

GARDENING Plant Clinic

Q. Some of my neighbors and I are disappointed in the way our rose bushes have grown this year. Some of the stems have grown exceedingly long and tall branches with several short stems having buds at the end. Have you heard of this problem from other readers and can you give an explanation for it? Some of us did prune back severely in January. Could this have had an effect on them? Incidentally, last year my bushes bloomed profusely with perfect blossoms. Thank you in advance for a reply. Mrs. Clara B. Scott, 5772 Garden Grove Blvd., Westminster, 92683.

A. The growth you described indicates those happy hybrid tea roses sent forth desirable brand new basal canes as long as they grew out from some bare portion of the bud union, or from the lower base of older, woodier, thicker, many-branched canes.

Had those long stems produced different color flowers they would be unwanted suckers that grew from below the bud union on the trunk of the bush. Occasionally such a sucker might grow from a rose root beside the bush trunk. The unwanted suckers rob the bush of nutrients and weaken the vigorous growth of the bush.

They should be torn off, NOT cut off. Tearing them off completely removes the sucker growth so it won't sprout again from that area.

Now, those desirable basal canes should be cut back to the outline of the bush, (node). Any more new basal cane tops should be snapped off when they've grown to about 18 to 20 inches tall. In doing this you force perhaps two new secondary branches, of which each then produce long-stemmed lovely rose blossoms. Severe winter pruning could be a determining factor in forcing a couple of extra basal canes to pop forth. (Good rosarians don't believe in severely pruning their roses annually). Gardener should be happy if the hybrid tea rose bush sends up several basal canes each year. Each new cane replaces an old many-branched cane which a wise gardener will cut off when pruning the bush during the winter. The rose thus is partially rejuvenated annually for some years.

COMMENT... Help... h-e-l-p... HELP... Oscar F. Grebner 2312 Carfax Ave., Long Beach, 90815, is seeking a Correa pulchella, a low-growing plant about three feet tall which spreads around five feet or so and is deep green (above) and gray-green below the leafage. The fuchsia-like pendulous blossoms are bell-shaped and light pink. They burgeon forth into bloom at the beginning of winter and end about the start of spring.

Please, if any of you readers know of a nursery that has such plants, let Mr. Grebner know. If any readers has such a plant and would like to offer him some cuttings, be sure to let him know. The plants common name is Australian fuchsia.

Garden checklist

Concentrate on deep watering your lawn. Infrequent but thorough soakings will be more beneficial than frequent shallow waterings.

Tuberous begonias and fuchsias are heavy feeders and should be fertilized frequently. Your nurseryman can recommend how often, and the plant food to use.

Plant fragrance in your garden. Here are a few shrubs with delightful fragrance:

star jasmine, bouvardia, sweet olive, night blooming jasmine, gardenias, and meyer lemon.

Consider some of the new floribunda roses for container plants. You can keep them happy in large pots for years.

For a longer vegetable harvest, make new sowings of carrots, radishes, beets, squash, cucumber and beans. Parsley can still be sown, too.

$4,000 for Superman comic book

NEW YORK (UPI)—Leapin' Lizards! $4,000 for a comic book? That's what Bob Crestohl, a Montreal collector and dealer, was offered recently for his copy of "Action No. 1," the comic in which Superman appeared for the first time in June, 1938.

But Crestohl, who spent two years tracking down the coveted volume until he found a man in Miami last year willing to part with it for $1,500, said he wouldn't consider selling it.

"I know I could get $5,000 for it now," he said. "But it's in my collection to stay. When that book was published, they printed about 500,000 copies. There are only about 25 copies known to be in existence today."

AND IF "Action No. 1" is too rich for your blood, Crestohl has a host of lesser comics up for sale or auction.

You can get "Detective Comics No. 27," May, 1939, for about $2,500, or a first edition of "Batman" for about $1,500.

If your tastes are more pedestrian, there's a host of lesser offerings in his collection, priced at $80,000, such as a copy of "Captain Marvel" for $150 or a "Walt Disney" for maybe even $50.

The occasion for the bartering was the 1974 New York Comic Art Convention, which was held recently at the Hotel Commodore.

The affair, which drew thousands of collectors and nostalgia buffs during its five-day run, included displays of posters, old movies, knickknacks, novelties, and panel discussions.

HIGHLIGHTS included a talk by Bob Kane, the artist-creator of Batman, and a seminar on "Women in the Comic Book Field."

One of the panelists, Joyce Sutton, is co-publisher of three "adult" comics in Laguna Beach, Calif. Because she doesn't earn enough from them to make a living, she's also a full-time bail bondsman.

A tour of the exhibit room unearthed such exotic items as recordings of old "Burns and Allen" and "The Shadow" radio shows, several film sequences from the "Amos N' Andy" series, and two bottles of Hopalong Cassidy Hair Tonic.

Convention goers jammed the Grand Ballroom, some of them carrying suitcases loaded with comics, hoping to turn a quick deal or find that one edition that continues to elude their grasp.

MOVIE GUIDE

THE PARALLAX VIEW — Reporter Warren Beatty investigates a mysterious organization whose goal is political assassination. With Hume Cronyn and Paul Prentiss. (R)

A KING IN NEW YORK — Charlie Chaplin lampoons American society in the 1950s. With Dawn Addams. (G)

THE NINE LIVES OF FRITZ THE CAT — A raunchy, crude and bawdy cartoon feature sequel satirizing some contemporary values. (R)

FOR PETE'S SAKE — Comedy. Seeking riches, Barbra Streisand, married to cab driver-college student Michael Sarrazin, becomes involved with loan sharks and speculation in the futures market. (PG)

THUNDERBOLT AND LIGHTFOOT — Criminal and con man Clint Eastwood teams with young drifter Jeff Bridges in staging a holdup in this contemporary crime tale. With George Kennedy. (R)

THE STING — Excellent. Funny, suspenseful and at times touching as 1930s con men Robert Redford and Paul Newman set up the elaborate swindle of a rackets chief. With Robert Shaw. (PG)

OLD YELLER — A Walt Disney film about a farm family in early Texas and the big roughneck range dog that protects them from wilderness dangers. With Dorothy McGuire and Fess Parker. (G)

THE SUGARLAND EXPRESS — Comic and poignant. Goldie Hawn and William Atherton, trying to stop the adoption of their baby, take a highway patrolman hostage and lead lawmen on a chase across Texas. With Ben Johnson. (PG)

BLAZING SADDLES — An often hilarious and bawdy parody of traditional western films. With Mel Brooks, Cleavon Little, Gene Wilder, Harvey Korman and Madeline Kahn. (R)

THE THREE MUSKETEERS — A rousing version of the Dumas tale with Oliver Reed, Raquel Welch, Richard Chamberlain, Faye Dunaway and Charlton Heston. (PG)

THE LAST DETAIL — Peacetime Navy men Jack Nicholson and Otis Young help a young sailor enjoy his last free hours while they escort him to a naval prison. A well-acted, sometimes humorous and harshly uncompromising tale. (R)

THE EXORCIST — William Blatty's shocking drama about a young girl possessed by the Devil. Directed by William Friedkin. With Max von Sydow, Ellen Burstyn, Linda Blair, Jason Miller and Lee J. Cobb. (R)

Mickey Mouse's voice willed to Disney pal

NEW YORK — Somebody concocted the pretty story that the late Walt Disney wrote in his will that he was leaving Mickey Mouse's voice to Jim MacDonald.

"It wasn't that romantic," MacDonald said, having a Manhattan at Gallagher's. "One day in about '45 or '47, Walt said to me 'You do Mickey's voice today. I'm too damn busy.' It was just a simple falsetto voice with an embarrassed giggle and I kept doing it till the last one about '53. I also did Goofy and Pluto, who just barks and pants as any dog does."

There was no will necessary, and the language may have been that Walt "willed it that Jim do Mickey's voice," which was obviously true. Jim set up a sound effects department for Disney in 1934. He is an amusing cocktail companion because he may haul out a large wooden spool connected with a rubber hose which he blows into and produces the sound of some angry bees getting angrier, for "The Bees and I."

If some practical joker friends of mine had his knowledge of sound effects, they would drive people mad. "I had some little kids pestering me," he said, "and I made such strange noises that they said 'There's a monster in there.'"

MacDonald uses little

I'd Rather be Light

Today's Best Laugh: A diner at Westbury's XII Arches, just back from a swank resort, reports the weather was so cold and rainy that the girls were merely carrying photos of themselves in bikinis.

Wish I'd Said That: A bachelor told Frank DiBascio he didn't plan ever to become a husband: "If God had intended man to get married, He'd have made him with ten hands and no ears."

Remembered Quote: "Success depends on a person's getting along with some people — and ahead of others."

Earl's Pearls: These days the true test of a comic is whether he can get a laugh without mentioning Watergate.

Producer Joe Levine, leaving Avco-Embassy, gave a party at 21 for his former aides and told them, "Remember, if you're ever lonely, I'll come over and holler at you again." That's earl, brother.

props to make big noises. He "doesn't mind" rock music, acknowledging that "it's today." And he heard somewhere or may have propounded it himself, that "more gold has been dug with a guitar pick than a miner's pick."

The Wienerwald restaurant on B'way was visited by 3 guys who looked it over as though about to stick it up but decided not to after learning about Vera the cashier. She kicked the last holdup man in a vulnerable area and chased him up the street holding onto his arm. Eddie the bartender said, "She was protecting that cash like it was hers."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL Broderick Crawford was anxious to buy a police whistle in a 57th St. store but the mgr. said it was too difficult to remove it from the window

... Alice Faye got big raves when "Good News" opened in Chicago ... David Ragan resigned as editorial chief of Warner Communications' show business magazines amid negotiations to switch ... Sig Sakowitz, the commentator, is so happy; his dtr. Christine and son-in-law John Samaha, Chicago underwriter, will make him a grandfather ...

YOUR HOROSCOPE

by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Sunday

Your birthday today: Finds you on the competitive (readers of your personal world). Prosperity is indicated along with expansion into added activity later in the year. Relationships are brisk, some contacts enjoyed while they last, others broken off clean for later reinstatement. Today's natives are interested in human nature, have much vitality which is difficult to distribute evenly.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Be out and around, see who else is likewise. Put in your full share of community observances, then take it easy. Let people come to you for a change.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Many openings occur for meetings of minds toward future mutual interests. Be alert and receptive. If you must work, keep to the personal world. Prosperity in all projects. Advance your family are featured. If they're less than perfect, something happens to improve them and ease your experience. Rearrangement is the byword.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Leave off pushing, see what the situation will be without that energy, then choose a fresh approach from what you learn. Courtship for the eligible is encouraged.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Be content with things as they are for the moment. Count your blessings, then, your advantages, conveniences, and finally your budget.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Letting well enough alone gives you time for thought, redirection of your deeper self. Be willing to change and grow; life can be wonderful!

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Strive for an uneventful day. However, if you happen to put your foot in your mouth with an overly strong opinion, make the best of it.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Reach out, see what is new in the world; more important, what's new within yourself. Try your hand at unaccustomed pastimes, original work.

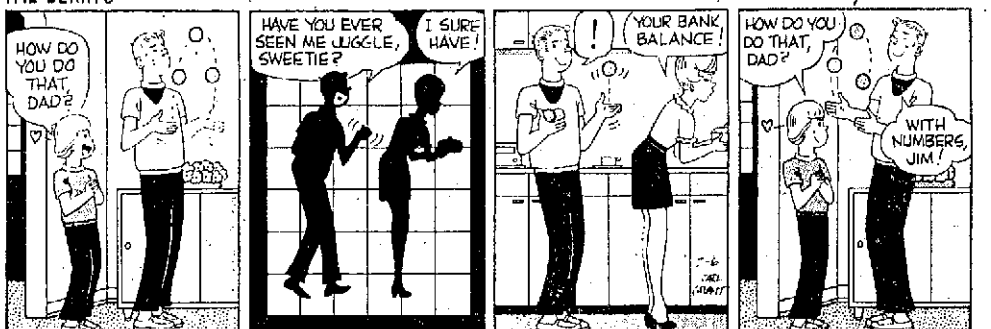

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Review your undertakings, make new schedules and budgets, bring accounts up to date. Then for later hours a complete change of pace and scene, have some fun.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You're at the peak of a cycle of personal magnetism, promotional capability. Not that your ideas will fit in everywhere, but they're needed for a starting point.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): The personal touch makes the difference in all projects. See what everybody in your circle is up to — some want encouragement, some have great news to tell!

TeleVues Buddy Ebsen gets the shift

BY BOB MARTIN
TV-Radio Editor

A note from Buddy Ebsen regarding his "Barnaby Jones" series on CBS (Channel 2):

"You might remember that I once was considered something of a 'hooper' in the great days of vaudeville. Well, they've got me 'dancing' from one spot to another again. Beginning July 6, 'Barnaby Jones' will be seen every Saturday night from 10 to 11, through Sept. 7.

"But then for our new season premiere, we move again, to another night, Tuesday at 10. "I sure hope you and your readers will be able to keep up with us." We'll try, Buddy, we'll try.

The popular private eye series had been airing at 9:30 p.m. Sundays, following "Mannix."

Moving into the 9:30-to-10:30 Sunday night slot for the summer will be "60 Minutes," the acclaimed newsmagazine series hosted by Mike Wallace and Morley Safer.

HEART ATTACKS will be the subject of a five-part series that will air next Monday through Friday in the 7:30-to-8 a.m. segment of NBC's "Today" program. Title of the series on Channel 4 is "Heart Attack: What Are Your Odds?"

Paul J. Cunningham, "Today" reporter-at-large, traveled across the country to talk with heart specialists at hospitals and clinics in various cities.

"THE EDWARDIANS," a four-part series of biographical dramas from the British Broadcasting Corp., will premiere on "Masterpiece Theatre" Sunday from 9 to 10:30 p.m. on Channel 28. Each program will repeat on Fridays at 9 p.m.

Anthony Hopkins stars in the first presentation as "Lloyd George," the fiery Welshman who became British prime minister. Hopkins starred in the TV movie "QB VII" and the "War and Peace" series.

"MARSHALL EFRON'S Illustrated, Simplified and Painless Sunday School," the CBS News series of religious presentations for children, returns to the tube with rebroadcasts of eight episodes on Sunday mornings from 9 to 9:30 on Channel 2, tomorrow through Aug. 25. The series has been highly praised.

THE SERENDIPITY Singers, who starred in an hour-long special from San Francisco Thursday night on Channel 5, are

BUGGING REPORT

A report on how easy it is to buy illegal bugging equipment in this country will be featured on "60 Minutes" when the series moves to prime time for the remainder of the summer Sunday, 9:30 p.m. on CBS (Channel 2).

Another segment will offer a behind the scenes look at the Panama Canal. Also scheduled is "Born to Be Small," filmed by British photographer Lord Snowdon and dealing with ordinary people — a doctor, postmistress, singer, secretary—who are normal in every respect but physical stature.

2. The weekly program offers tips on how to survive if lost in the wilderness in a segment titled "To Those Who Love the Outdoors." Mario Machado is the host.

TENNIS FANS can see highlights of today's Wimbledon men's single final from 9:30 to 11 this morning on Channel 4 and highlights of Friday's women's singles final and men's doubles final from 2 to 3:30 this afternoon.

Zahn latest Dodger hero after split

By GORDON VERRELL
Staff Writer

MONTREAL — In the Dodgers' first 81 games, exactly half the season, Geoff Zahn pitched all of seven and one-third innings.

Friday night, in the second game of a doubleheader with the Montreal Expos, Zahn came within one out of matching his work for the entire first half.

More than that, he allowed only one hit in a masterful performance and, with Mike Marshall's

DODGERS OF DAY

Geoff Zahn earned first victory and Willie Crawford hit two home runs in doubleheader split with Montreal.

three-hit relief the final two innings, earned his first victory, 7-0, as Willie Crawford slugged two homers and drove in four runs.

The Expos won the opener, 11-6, the biggest run total against the Dodgers all season. But even with the split, the Dodgers increased their lead in the National League's Western Division to a staggering 10 games over the Cincinnati Reds, who lost to St. Louis, 3-2.

The shutout in the nightcap was the 12th by Dodger pitchers and Marshall has shared in four of them.

He wouldn't say so, but he no doubt relished this one a little more than the others. It was against his former teammates and when he appeared, even to warm up, he was soundly booed by the 23,167 fans who jammed into Little Jarry Park.

"This reception," admitted Marshall, who says he never hears the fans, "I heard."

He probably also noticed the standing ovation given Willie Davis, the man the Dodgers traded to Montreal for Marshall, when Willie D. singled off of Marshall in the ninth inning.

It was also Davis who got the only hit off of Zahn, a 27-year-old left-hander, a graduate of the University of Michigan, who spent six years in the Dodgers' minor league organization before getting to the majors.

The win was his first this year and second in the big leagues. He was the winning pitcher the final game of the 1973 season.

"There was nothing wrong with his stuff, even in the seventh inning," replied manager Walter Alton when asked why he removed Zahn. "He hadn't pitched very much and there was no reason to extend him when we have someone like Marshall in the bullpen."

It was Marshall's 55th appearance of the season and third against his former team. He hasn't given up a run to the Expos in 6½ innings against them.

Crawford's two home runs were his fourth and fifth of the season and it continued the surge at the plate he started in Cincinnati. He now has nine hits his last 19 at bats.

The Dodgers got an unearned in the first inning of the second game. Then Crawford made it 3-0 with his first home run in the fourth and then hit his second one two innings later, another two-run blow.

Zahn allowed only three baserunners in his seven innings, two via walks, and retired the final 10 batters he faced in order.

Alton refused to say whether Zahn's strong showing will move him into the starting rotation, but it certainly places him ahead of another left-hander, Al Downing, who was knocked off the first game in the fourth inning. He was tagged for six hits and six runs (four earned) in 3 1/3 innings.

Other than rookie Rick Rhoden, who finished out the fourth inning, no one else did much pitching either.

Charlie Hough was battered for four hits, one of them a home run by Barry Foote, in the fifth inning, and then Jim Brewer was tagged for back-to-back homers by Mike Jorgensen and Ken Singleton in the eighth.

The Dodgers spotted Montreal a 6-0 lead after four innings, but got three

Russia leading Yanks

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Reggie Jones and Darwin Bond, a pair of swift collegians from Tennessee, kept a depleted United States men's track team close to its Soviet rivals Friday as the U.S.-Russian dual meet opened its two-day show.

Jones, a freshman on the Volunteers' National Collegiate Athletic Assn. champion team, won the 100 meters and anchored the 440-yard relay team to victory. Bond paced a U.S. sweep in the 400 meters.

But the Soviets, powerful in the field events and the longer races, moved to a 54-49 lead in the men's competition. The American women, despite fine performances by Joni Huntley, Debra Sapenter and Renaye Bowen, fell behind 36-26.

The combined team score, which is the official tabulation, was 90-75 in favor of the Russians.

With Olympic champ Valery Borzov scratched, Jones and Steve Williams had no trouble sweeping the 100 in 10.2 seconds. Bond kicked past former Arizona State runner Maurice Peoples to win his race in 46.2.

The only other American sweep was in the 110-meter hurdles, where Tom Hill of the Army held off fast-closing Charles Foster to win in 13.5.

The most disappointed American was 19-year-old Ohio State freshman Tom Byers, who led the 1,500-meter run until the last turn. Byers said he was bumped by a Russian runner as he stumbled off the track. But according to meet officials, who looked at films of the race, Byers tripped on the track curve.

'Old pros' battle for Star berths

NEW YORK (AP) — Al Kaline and Frank Robinson, two "old pros" who now earn their livings chiefly as designated hitters, are battling it out for the third starting outfield position, with two days remaining in the voting for the American League All-Star team.

Kaline, now in his 22nd season with Detroit, has received 562,187 votes to 554,531 for Robinson, of the Angels, who now is in his 19th season and with his fourth team.

Outfielder Reggie Jackson of Oakland is the league's top vote-getter with 1,542,790.

U.S. CAGERS WIN, 109-86; GAIN FINALS

PONCE, P.R. (AP) — Luther Burden paced an often-sloppy American basketball team to a 109-86 victory over Argentina Friday night in the World Basketball Championship tournament.

The victory was the third in a row for the U.S. squad which exploded after Argentina had tied the game 8-8 in the early going. The American squad then scored 14 of the next 18 points to pull away.

Burden, of Utah, finished the game with 22 points, while John Lucas had 15.

In the other game at Ponce, Spain defeated the Philippines 117-85 to gain a berth in the final round Sunday.

Chris Evert new darling, but hearts with Rosewall

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — A poker-faced little Australian with imperious court manners, indestructible legs and a backhand like magic was the toast of tennis fans at Wimbledon Friday.

He's Ken Rosewall, who reached the final of the men's singles for the fourth time in 20 years—and he's 39 years old.

How did he do it? How could he play a gruelling five-set match like his semifinal 6-8, 4-6, 9-8, 6-1, 6-3 victory over Stan Smith and still walk jauntily off court? It's the simple life, said Rosewall, the man who used to be called "Mr. Muscles" 22 years ago when he first came here as a youngster of 17.

They call him "Mr. Wimbledon" now. He's made the ivy-clad courts his kingdom, and he's known as the best player never to win here.

All the fans here hope that will change today, that he will break his 20-year jinx and finally take the world's premier tennis title. He lost in the final to Jaroslav Drobny in 1954. He lost in the final to Lew Hoad in 1956 and he lost again in the final to John Newcombe in 1970.

Today, he meets Jimmy Connors, the 21-year-old from Belleville, Ill., and about the only person here who hopes Jimmy wins is the new woman's champion, Chris Evert.

She's prejudiced: She's Jimmy's fiancée.

Connors, upon learning of his opponent after methodically cutting down U.S. teammate Dick Stockton, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3, 6-4, raised his eyebrows in surprise and commented: "How do you play a legend?"

Connors has the opportunity of making this 77th Wimbledon the "Sweetheart Championships" because, as the fiancée of Miss Evert, he has the chance to add "his" and "hers" Wimbledon trophies to the double gold rings in the planned fall wedding ceremony.

The petite Miss Evert, at 19 the second youngest lady to win this title in modern times, literally crushed Olga Morozova, her doubles partner and newfound friend from Moscow, 6-0, 6-4.

It was the most one-sided ladies' final since Doris Hart beat Shirley Fry 6-1, 6-0 in an all-America final in 1951.

Little Chrissy was almost ruthless in the manner that she destroyed her foe.

"You have to win every point. She gives you nothing," the attractive Mrs. Morozova, wife of a Moscow engineering professor, said afterward in despair.

Chris succeeds Billie Jean King, the grand dame of women's tennis, as Wimbledon champion and she gives every indication that she is now more than just an heir apparent to the throne.

Chris, her blonde hair tied with a pink-and-white bow and her pink-trimmed ballerina skirt flying in the gusty winds, cruised through the first set in 25 minutes.

Olga made a slight comeback in the second set—winning two matches of two games each, breaking Chris' service twice—but she lacked the skills to tear down Miss Evert's steadiness.

Her lips closed tight and her pretty face a picture of concentration, Chrissy drilled her twofisted backhands down the sidelines, hit forehand winners crosscourt and lifted lobs that had Mrs. Morozova almost on the verge of distress.

The match ended tragically for the Russian. She doublefaulted at match point.

After receiving her trophy from the Duke of Kent, Miss Evert rushed to the clubhouse and phoned her father, Jim, a tennis professional in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

"He was so happy, he cried," she said.

There were tears in the gallery, too, for the gritty, Rosewall—tears of happiness, just as there had been tears for old Jaroslav Drobny back in 1954 when the stateless Czech beat a young Rosewall.

Rosewall appeared a beaten man when Smith, his big service booming and his net play smashing and deadly, swept through the first two sets and had Rosewall hanging on at 5-3 in the third.

"I was a little shaky

Super Bowl champions are divided on strike

Associated Press

Miami Dolphin tight end Jim Madich said Friday night he would cross any picket line set up by his teammates and report to training camp on July 14 while two other members of the Super Bowl champion team said they were undecided about a course of action.

However, at least 20 of the Dolphin veterans said they would picket the opening of the team's camp on Sunday, when rookies and free agents are scheduled to report.

The striking National Football League Players

Assn. hoping to swing the Dolphins to their side at a Friday night meeting in Miami, won a victory earlier in the day at San Diego when linebacker Don Goode, a first-round draft pick of the Chargers, joined the picket line.

After the lengthy meeting of Dolphin veterans, Ed Garvey, the NFLPA's executive director, emerged to say there was no vote on whether the team should play in the College All-Star.

"We didn't come here to vote on the All-Star game, we only wanted to explain the position of the player's association," said Doug Swift, Dolphin player representative.

Garvey said he tried to impress on the Dolphins that the All-Star game shouldn't be played unless a settlement was reached.

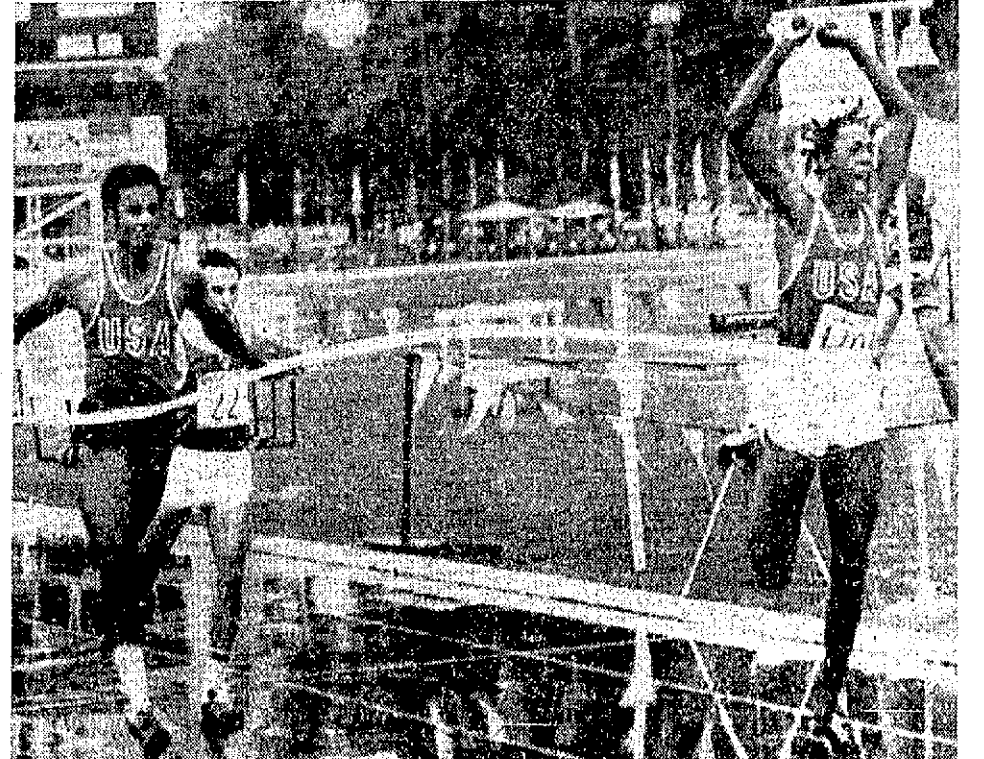

Swift said the players would not vote as a team on whether to honor the picket line. He said that decision would be left to each player's discretion.

"Nothing in the meeting made me change my mind about not going along with the strike," Mandich said. "I am very tired of the business and of football."

Mandich said management had treated him well in his contract negotiations and he was looking forward "to my best year and I don't want anything to mess it up."

A failure by some key Dolphins to honor the union's picket line could have a weakening effect on the striking players, who threaten to wipe out the NFL's exhibition season if their demands for

Reds beaten, trail by 10

CINCINNATI (AP)—Jim Dwyer's tie-breaking two-run pinch single in the eighth inning sparked St. Louis to a 3-2 victory over the slumping Cincinnati Reds Friday night.

The loss dropped the Reds 10 games behind the pacesetter Dodgers in the National League West.

Joe Torre opened the inning with an infield hit when third baseman Dan Driessen fell down trying to field his grounder. Ted Simmons doubled Torre to third, and Clay Carroll relieved Cincinnati starter Fred Norman.

Carroll issued an intentional walk to Bake McBride, loading the bases, and Ken Reitz forced Torre at the plate before Dwyer, recently recalled from the minors, delivered a single to center. He was batting for relief pitcher Rich Folkers.

The Reds got their first run against Alan Foster in the first inning when Johnny Bench's bases-loaded, checked-swing grounder scored Pete Rose, who had singled and moved around to third on consecutive walks. They scored again in the bottom of the eighth on two walks and Driessen's single.

The Cards tied the game 1-1 in the seventh on Lou Brock's run-scoring single after Reitz opened the inning with a ground-rule double and went to third on Tim McCarver's pinch single.

It was Kessinger who got the Cubs off to a two-run third inning lead in the nightcap with a single off Atlanta starter Phil Niekro. Vic Harris tripled Kessinger home and Harris scored when Braves' rightfielder Sonny Jackson lost Billy Williams' fly ball that fell for a double.

In the opener, Bonham picked up his seventh win of the year and third in a row after scattering just five singles.

Willie D. beats the throw

If the face is familiar it ought to be to Dodger fans as Willie Davis, now of the Montreal Expos, steals second base against his former teammate Davey Lopes in third inning of first game Friday night in Montreal. Expos hammered out 14 hits to win opener, 11-6; but Dodgers came back to win nightcap, 7-0.

ANGELS BEATEN—

Angel bullpen in left field.

You could practically see the emotion drain from the Angels at that point.

The Indians, who moved into a first place tie with Boston in the A.L. East by virtue of their seventh successive victory over the Angels, added insult to injury by chasing Ryan and scoring five times in the ninth inning.

All the Angels received was their fifth loss in a row and 10th in 12 games.

Today they'll receive a fast shuffle and some pink slips.

To say the least I haven't been happy with some of the things I've seen," Williams said. "To be specific the pitching out of the bullpen hasn't been good and there have been defensive lapses that must be rectified."

Ken Aspromonte, the Cleveland manager, was incensed over the call on Schaal's alleged bobble. "That was a chicken thing to do," he said. "It really made us mad. It wasn't fair to Schaal, either. It was a hard hit ball."

Carrying a one-hitter and a 2-1 deficit into the ninth, Ryan couldn't get anybody out and excited after doubles by Jack Brehmer and John Ellis. A single by Charlie Spikes and a walk to Gamble.

Barry Rasmuson couldn't get anybody out, either, yielding a run-scoring single to Hendrick and walking Buddy Bell and Dave Duncan to force over another run.

John Cumberland finally restored order.

Bob Oliver homered for the Angels off winner Fritz Peterson for the first Angel run in the seventh and they picked up an unearned run against reliever Fred Beene in the ninth.

Frank Robinson doubled in the ninth for his 1,140th extra base hit, moving him past Ty Cobb and into sixth place on the all-time list.

ANGEL ANGLES—Gaylord Perry, whose 15 victories in a row has caused a sensation in baseball this season, freely admits that the pressure is mounting steadily. "But I pitch better with pressure," he said before Friday's game. "And this year I feel I'm pitching better than I ever have in my life." Perry will not face the Angels in this series... His next start is Monday night against Oakland... It was a shattering experience for Joe Halbert and Bill Spikes, the scoreboard operators at the Big A Thursday night. A foul ball off the bat of Bobby Valentine shattered the glass on their private room, sending fragments flying in all directions. Luckily, no one was hurt... Stadium Operations Director Ted Bowfield and head groundskeeper Joe Verdy were perturbed by Thursday's crowd which maliciously ripped grass divots in the outfield grass where they were invited to sit to view the fireworks shows. "People should have more sense," snapped Bossey, one of the game's nice guys.

Jets, Hawks renew tourney title drive

The International Softball Congress champion Lakewood Jets open today's session of the Joe Rodgers Memorial Tournament with an 11 a.m. battle against Fresno RKT at Joe Rodgers Field.

If victorious against Fresno, one of the top Northern California squads, the Jets will return to play the winner of Friday night's late game between Clovis and Las Vegas.

The Long Beach Nitehawks will be out to avenge last week's beating at the hands of Camarillo in an 8:30 p.m. contest. In the tournament's biggest upset, the Kings and pitcher Darwin Tolzin blanked highly-regarded Phoenix 3-0 Friday night on home runs by Loren Maygren and Dick Jaquez.

Valencia Gardens..... 200 004 2-9 8 1
RKT..... 001 000 2-2 2 2

Sneed expands tee lead; Hill, Zender share 2nd

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Ed Sneed, the leader all the way, clipped one more stroke off par with a 71 and expanded his lead to four strokes Friday in the third round of the $130,000 Milwaukee Open golf tournament.

Sneed, who has scored 19 birdies through three rounds of this chase for a $28,000 first prize, had a 54-hole total of 204, 12-under-par on the 7,010-yard Tuckaway CC course.

Dave Hill and Bob Zender moved into a tie for second at 208, Hill playing the par-5 holes three-under enroute to a 68 while Zender took a 69.

Grier Jones had the best round on the mild, sunny day with a 66 that put him alone at 209.

Former Masters champion Tommy Aaron was alone in second after 36 holes, but blew to a 75 and was tied with five others at 211, a distant seven strokes back going into today's final round.

"It's a good feeling to be leading by four," said Sneed, whose only previous tour triumph came in the Kaiser Open last fall.

"My play was a little shabby with the short irons," he said. "I missed about three greens from the 150-160 yard range."

But I saved some good pars, too, so I guess it evens out.

At one point he slipped to 10-under par while Zender moved to eight-under but that was as close as anyone got.

"I felt the pressure out there—no leader can play without feeling that. But I'm trying to avoid mistakes. I don't look at the leader board because I just try to play my own game. Maybe tomorrow I'll look at it during the last three holes."

The soft-spoken 29-year-old had led by two strokes at the end of the first round, by three at the end of two and now has improved by one shot each day.

He led by five until he scored his fourth bogey of the day on the last hole, driving it behind a tree on the left and declining on a gamble to reach the green.

He had five birdies. One came on a 25-foot putt, three others from eight to 10 feet and the other on a 15-footer. He three-putted once, made bogey-six after visiting two traps on a par-five hole and bogeyed the 10th after driving into trouble.

Breer 'ace' of Frontier Classic

GRAND ISLAND, N.Y. (UPI)—Murle Breer, who says "I depend on the Lord to help me," got a needed assist Friday as she shot a hole-in-one and strung together three sub-par holes to take a one-shot lead in the opening round of the $35,000 Ladies Professional Golf Assn.'s Niagara Frontier Classic.

Jo Ann Carner, on a hot streak after a disappointing season last year, was tied for second place with Sharon Miller one stroke back at two-under par 71.

Mrs. Breer, who travels with her husband and two children, got the ace on the 164-yard, par-three seventh hole with a seven iron tee-shot. It was her second in LPGA play.

I never saw the shot," Mrs. Breer said. "I couldn't see the cup because of the rise, but I heard the applause and felt I had made it."

Enjoying her best year since she joined the tour

U.S. crews look strong at Henley

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England (AP)—Rowing crews from Harvard University led the United States' challenge through the second day at Henley Royal Regatta Friday.

Harvard's varsity lightweight looked strong and impressive in sweeping into the quarter-finals of the Thames Challenge Cup for eights with a four-length victory over Scotland's Aberdeen University.

"Everything is going well and the crew is in top shape," said Harvard coach John Higginson of Woodstock, Vt.

The Harvard Eastern spring champions took control at the start and finished in 7:23.

Among six other U.S. victors on the one-mile, 550-yard River Thames course was the popular Kirkland House eight from Harvard, Kirkland beat England's Selwyn College in the second round of the Ladies Challenge Plate for heavyweights by one-third of a length in 7:40.

The American eight slipped nearly two lengths back with a mile gone. But stroke Gene LeBarre of Marietta, Ohio, roused his crew and they rallied for victory.

Schwartz hurls, bats Reds to win

Steve Schwartz fired a four-hitter, striking out nine, and went 2-for-3 with a grand slam to lead the Long Beach Reds to a 10-1 victory over the Long Beach Mets in a Police League game Friday night.

No one was more surprised at the announcement of Englishman Jack Taylor as referee for Sunday's World Soccer Cup final than fellow referee Bob Davidson of Scotland.

Davidson was so sure he would be handling the West Germany-Holland championship in Munich that he telephoned his wife with the news and even arranged a television interview.

In fact, Davidson was standing in front of the BBC TV cameras, believing he had the job, when the announcement came through. "I am so disgusted with this entire mess that I might give up refereeing," was Davidson's only comment.

Davidson, reportedly, was a linesman in the Brazil-Holland semifinal Wednesday and missed Brazilian Marinho's blatant foul of Dutchman Johan Neeskens, causing the referees' committee to choose Taylor.

Pantaleo sped past Byers and swept the race. Ponomarev's time was 3:42.1.

Soviet hammer throwers recorded a sweep with just two throws. Alexsey Spiridonov whirled the weight 244 feet, 11 inches, a meet record, and then passed his remaining throws because it was raining.

Anatoliy Bondarchuk, after an initial throw of 233-2, also passed. The Americans never came close to matching them.

The Soviets gained more field-event points in the pole vault, where Vladimir Trofimenko leaped 16-10 3/4, and America's Dave Roberts scored no points. Roberts, an 18-foot vaulter, passed under the bar was at the winning height, then failed to clear it.

The American team was handicapped by the absence of several national champions who chose not to compete. The members of the Pacific Coast Track Club, including Dwight Stones, Jim Bolding, John Powell and Al Feuerbach, boycotted the meet in a dispute with the AAU over European travel permits.

The Soviets, in addition to scratching Borzov from the 100, lost Olympic silver medal winner Evgeniy Arzhanov with a foot injury.

ROSEWALL Cup showdown set for Munich

there," Rosewall said. "Smith was playing very well and I just wasn't getting the shots off my racket as I hoped. But I didn't give up. I kept hoping Stan would start making some mistakes."

The wish came true. Rosewall held service in the ninth game of the third set, then broke Smith in the 10th with a series of whistling backhand shots.

This carried the third set into the 12-point tie breaker.

The crowd went wild as Rosewall, playing superbly, zoomed to a 4-0 lead in points. Then Smith started coming back, winning the next three points.

On the eighth point, Rosewall hit a net cord shot. The ball hit the top of the net, wavered a moment, then fell limply on Smith's side of the court.

Point, Rosewall 5-3.

"That drop shot may have won for me," Rosewall said.

Nevertheless, he double-faulted on the next point, a dangerous mistake. Then Smith moved to a 6-5 lead. Match point for the big American. Rosewall, serving, forced Smith to hit the next two returns into the net. Then, with Smith serving, there was a rally and a deep shot by Rosewall forced Smith to overhit the back line. It was the set.

Rosewall won the fourth set, got a break in the fourth game of the fifth and held on for the set. He finished by serving a love game.

MUNICH (AP)—The Netherlands, playing 21st Century soccer, rated the favorite Friday to win the World Cup in its game against West Germany.

The two teams meet for one of the world's greatest sporting prizes Sunday in the Olympic Stadium here. Brazil and Poland will play in the same stadium today for third place.

Forecasters are predicting mostly clear skies with temperatures in the 70 to 80-degree range.

"Holland is now playing the football that is going to be played in the year 2,000," said Virgilio Capaccioni, an official of the Argentine Football Assn.

"The Dutch players have the skill to play without the ball," said Argentine Coach Vladislao Cap. "All 10 members of the squad are rotating and performing every function on the field."

Meanwhile, the coach of the West Germany team, buoyed by the confidence of his countrymen, said he didn't mind being underdog to the Johan Cruyff-led Dutch. "We are free of pressures," said coach Helmut Schoen.

While most experts are picking the Dutch, a public opinion poll showed 79 per cent of the West German people think the host team will win the Cup, compared with 66 per cent before the tournament started.

U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger reportedly is predicting a West German victory by a 1-0 score.

Kissinger and European royalty are expected to watch the championship game.

A force of 1,200 police will be on "duty" in and around the stadium for the title match.

Jack Taylor, a 43-year-old butcher from Wolverhampton, England, was named as referee for the title game. The World Soccer Federation appointed Alfonso Gonzales Archundia of Mexico and Ramon Barreto Ruiz of Uruguay as the linesmen.

The Dutch team is quartered at Hilstrup, not far from The Netherlands-West Germany border.

The Germans are staying near Munich amid tight security.

The bank could face $500-a-day fine for its pollution violations, McHugh said, but probably won't because of McHugh said the bank will continue to be cited if it fails to gain its variance and may ultimately be taken to federal court to force compliance with air quality standards if it doesn't do so voluntarily.

Surviving are a son, William N. Jr. of Tustin; daughters, Kathleen Saliger, Patricia McLin, both of Los Angeles, and a brother, Frank.

Oil and batteries valued at $161 were taken from a service station at 6597 Long Beach Blvd. by a burglar who broke a window to gain entry, owner Edwin Lien told Long Beach police Friday.

of the hearing was to collect opinions on a rail reorganization plan drafted by the Department of Transportation, calling for the abandonment of 15,575 miles of "potentially excess" track in 17 midwestern and northeastern states.

Last month, the court held the board exceeded its authority in December when it ordered a one-year "energy crisis" delay in the requirement that all 1966-70 cars be fitted with so-called "nox" devices, to cut emissions to nitrogen oxides.

BUT VAN Nostrand, who wanted to file a state level action against the big grain companies, couldn't blame the elevator men for their silence and explained why he dropped his own plans to seek action.

"Among the people with whom I discussed this matter were officials of some of the large grain companies. They were frank to admit that should we be successful in stopping such practices in Iowa, their grain cars would be diverted to those states where they had reason to believe such practices could continue.

Stanson charged in the civil action that William Penn Mott Jr., director of the State Department of Parks and Recreation, used the agency to promote passage of the bond issue. The department circulated campaign literature of a private organization, Californians for Parks, Beaches and Wildlife, and promoted the proposition with public funds, the suit said.

Stanson had filed suit June 3 asking that no public money be used to promote Prop. 1.

Imperial, Coachella and lower Colorado River Valleys: Fair through Sunday. Winds locally 20 to 30 mph near coastal mountain passes in the afternoon and evening hours. Not much temperature change. Overnight lows from 75 to 85. Highs today and Sunday from 105 to 112.

The Air Pollution Control District predicts light to moderate smog today in Los Angeles County and in the Central Valley.

The APCD issued the following forecast for atmospheric conditions:

OZONE—Maximum values of .30 parts per million in the San Gabriel Valley; .25 ppm in other inland valleys; and .10 to .20 ppm elsewhere.

SILOX—Ozone—Moderate in the San Gabriel Valley; light elsewhere.

VISIBILITY—Minimums of Two miles in the Central and Inland valleys and three miles elsewhere.
